NURSE ADDS TO CONFESSION

MICHAUD GIRL TELLS IT ALL

HOULTON, Me., Nov. 11.—Katherine A. Michaud, the nurse whose story resulted in the discovery of the body of Mildred Sullivan in its shallow grave in the woods and in the arrest of Dr. Lionel E. Dudley on a murder charge, today added startling details to her confession.

It was as a result of her first story that Alice and Perley Pelletier were arrested as accessories to the murder of the little Sullivan girl, who was called the "Prettiest Girl in Aroostook."

Miss Michaud told the authorities, in adding to her original narrative, that Dr. Dudley was intoxicated when he treated Mildred Sullivan just before she died. This is the story that came to light today. Likewise she said:

NURSE FRIGHTENED.

"Mildred's condition frightened us so that I begged Dr. Dudley to call another doctor. He replied that it would be no use, that no doctor could save her."

Miss Michaud was required to tell her full story over again last night in a conference with Deputy Marden Lawlis and County Attorney Bernard Archibald. A stenographer was present and took down every word. The authorities today are carefully guarding her story and hope to be able to keep it secret until the Grand Jury investigation.

In line with this plan, she will not be asked to go on the stand at the preliminary hearings. The county attorney believes he has sufficient evidence for a prima facie case against the defendants, and will reveal no more evidence than becomes necessary.

FUR COAT IS FOUND.

Today's developments brought to light another feature of the case—the fact that the State has in its possession the fur coat which was wrapped about the nightgown-clad body of the Sullivan girl on the night automobile ride which preceded her midnight burial in the woods.

That the body, after Mildred died, was wrapped in a fur coat and hidden in an outcry in the Pelletier home till the automobile came to take it away has been rumored heretofore. Early in the case also, the authorities found a fur coat under a pile of railroad ties near the trotting park.

But there was nothing at that time to show that this coat was the one used. The authorities held on to their find; and now the confession of Katherine Michaud shows, it is understood, that the coat found under the railroad ties was the one in which Mildred's body was wrapped.

The pile of ties where the coat was found is between the wood lot where the grave lies and the Pelletier home. It is only a short distance from the location of the grave.

A new version of the midnight burial came to light today, as an explanation of the arrest of Perley Pelletier, seventeen-year-old brother of Alice Pelletier.

NEW VERSION OF BURIAL.

This version was that when Mildred Sullivan died, there was great excitement in the Pelletier home, and that Perley was sent into the woods to find a spot to bury the body; that

Ousted Officials Appeal to Court

Four members of the former Board of Appeal of the Boston Building Department, James R. Murphy, William D. Austin, Edward H. Eldredge and Neil McNeil, who were removed by Mayor Curley, appealed to the Supreme Court today to have the Mayor compelled to reinstate them. They said the removal was in violation of the statute under which they were appointed. There will be a hearing Tuesday.

Gets $78,000; Plans 10 Years' Good Time

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 11.—"As soon as I get my hands on that $78,000 I am going on a ten years' good time," said Joseph Regan today, when notified by his mother in Dublin, Ireland, that he had been left an estate of that amount by his aunt. Regan is a plumber and is at work on the new federal building here. His aunt is Mary Brazer. Regan's home is in Long Branch, New Jersey. He is not married.

Ottoman Princes to Visit Kaiser

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—Mahmoud Mouktar Pasha, the Turkish ambassador, and three Ottoman princes have left here to visit Emperor William at headquarters.

"Win at Any Cost," Says King George

LONDON, Nov. 11.—"England must triumph in the war with Germany regardless of any sacrifice that the gaining of final victory will demand," was the message conveyed to Parliament today by King George in his speech, which provided the feature when the House of Lords and House of Commons reconvened.

"Throughout the empire," said the King, "there is a fixed determination to secure, whatever the sacrifice, the triumph of our arms and the vindication of our cause."

Jap Torpedo Boat Destroyed by Mine

TOKIO, Nov. 11.—The Japanese torpedo boat No. 33 was destroyed while sweeping for mines at the entrance to Kiao-Chau bay. She struck a mine, but most of her crew was saved.

Six men were killed or wounded and three are missing. Other torpedo boats made an attempt to tow No. 33 into shallow water but failed.

Provisions for Belgians Burned

THE HAGUE, Nov. 11.—Forty carloads of provisions sent by farmers to relieve the sufferings of the people of that city, caught fire at the Antwerp railway station on Tuesday and were destroyed, according to reports received here today.

NANTUCKET, Nov. 11.—An unusually thick growth of eel grass along the shores has prevented the scallop-dredgers from making any big hauls thus far this season.

ENGLISH EXECUTE 'AMERICAN'

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Karl Hans Lody, who had lived in America and had married an American girl, and who was traveling as an American tourist when he was arrested, has been shot as a German spy, in the historic Tower of London.

Not for almost 200 years had there been an execution in the Tower.

To the very end Lody maintained the calm imperturbability which characterized him throughout the trial, and when facing the firing party he refused to be blindfolded.

The execution took place in the miniature rifle range at the Tower just as dawn was breaking. Over night Lody had been removed from Wellington Barracks, where he had been confined since his trial, to the Tower, and was taken to one of the guard rooms. Just before daybreak eight soldiers were roused and marched to the rifle range, being followed immediately by Lody, who walked firmly and calmly.

SAT IN CHAIR.

He seated himself on a chair. Folding his arms and crossing his legs, he leaned back.

A sergeant cried: "Present! Fire!" The eight rifles rang out with one report, and Lody was dead. Subsequently his body was buried within the precincts of the Tower.

The execution of Lody is announced in a brief official statement; but it is unofficially unterstood that strong efforts were made to induce him to reveal the secrets of the system of which he was a part, that he was asked particularly to tell the name of the officer who gave him his instructions, and that he died, bravely refusing to open his lips on these matters.

It is even hinted that he was given to understand a full story of his work might save his life. Whether this is true or not will perhaps never be known, for the grim Tower keeps its secrets well. But certainly Lody died without revealing any of the secrets England was so anxious to know.

Lody, when arrested, was traveling as an American and under the name of Charles A. Inglis. Later, however, he confessed that he was a reserve officer in the German navy. He had been employed by a tourist agency in New York, and had worked for the Union Pacific in Canada.

MARRIED IN OMAHA.

Some years ago during a visit to St. Louis he married the daughter of Gottlieb Storz, a wealthy brewer. They had met when Miss Storz was on a trip to Germany, and Lody so ardently pressed his suit that he was encouraged to come to St. Louis after Miss Storz returned to her home. Their marriage was not quiet, and a few months later some disagreement led to divorce proceedings. The wife sought and secured the divorce, and Lody is reported as having said he was given alimony by Mr. Storz to compensate him for his financial losses, but Mr. Storz has denied that allegation.

After the divorce, Lody returned to Germany, and there reported as a reserve officer at the time the War broke out. He was ordered to sea as an Ensign, a term, and to start for New York, in London, but to remain in England as long as possible. His particular instructions were to await the first news of development of importance and report the English losses as soon as to report, so far as possible, the movements of English ships.

Lody—who had served a short time before on the Kaiser's racing yacht, Meteor—objected to those instructions on the ground that he had not the necessary papers to pass as an American, he testified at his trial. In consequence of his objections, an American passport was furnished him and he was dispatched to England.

Nations at War Send Big Orders to United States

The following orders now being filled in the United States for the nations at war give indication of the new business that is coming to America:

British shoe manufacturer is here for $2,500,000 worth of leather. He expects to place bulk of the order in Boston.

* * *

Tremont & Suffolk Mills, Lowell, have orders for 1,000,000 cotton blankets for the war, at approximately $1 each.

Merrimac Mills, Methuen, have orders for 100,000 blankets.

New England shoe manufacturers are said to have war orders for over 2,000,000 pairs of shoes.

Horses for the French army bring stiff prices at Hancock, N. Y.

Tindel-Morris company is reported to have order for 2,500,000 steel shrapnel cases for France.

* * *

Bethlehem Steel Company will build new factory at New Castle, Del., for papier-mache cases and loading proposition.

Pittsburgh has an order for 1,000,000 intrenching tools from Ireland.

Norway is asking quotations on 50,000 pons steel rails.

Motorcycle makers are getting heavy export orders.

Large tonnages of nickel are being shipped to Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan.

* * *

S. Liebovitz & Sons, Reading, Pa., are making $250,000 worth of hospital shirts for England.

Canadian buyers have placed orders in the States for 1,500,000 yards of shirting flannel.

Cotton exports are improving tremendously, 122,467 bales were exported in the week ending November 5 and 157,479 in week previous. Normal weekly exports ranging between 1,000 and 3,000 bales during August and half of September.

Mullin Shoe Company, Pittsburgh, is making 500,000 pairs for France, reported value $650,000.

Five St. Louis saddle manufacturers have 1,000,000 in war orders for [illegible].

South Bend, Ind., is making 20,000 sets of six-horse harness and 50,000 saddles.

* * *

St. Louis harness manufacturer is said to have English order for 1,500 sets, 75,000 artillery harness, total cost $250,000.

Greece reported to be ordering 20,000 aluminum canteens in Philadelphia. Other inquiries there are for 50,000 pairs shoes, 100,000 army blankets, 75,000 yards duck and 100,000 pairs socks.

French agents are buying wheat in 5,000,000 bushel lots. An order for 600,000 bushels oats has been placed.

Minneapolis reports day's business of $1,000,000.

Ohio flour millers are running day and night on Paris, Glasgow and Liverpool orders.

Wheat and flour exports from United States and Canada since July 1 total 129,811,000 bushels, compared with 96,452,000 for same period last year.

A conservative authority estimate the foreign business done in the United States by European agents in the past two months at $250,000,000. One banker reports orders to buy or pay for $15,000,000 of goods for customers. The greater part of this, too, is cash.

KAISER'S ARMY FORCES WEDGE NEARER COAST

Dixmude has been captured by the Germans.

This was admitted in an official statement issued in Paris today.

Dixmude is the Belgian town on the Yser in Flanders, around which the most violent fighting of the week has centred. It is a few miles from the coast of the English Channel.

Offsetting the admission that Dixmude has fallen it is announced that Lombertzy, north of Nieuport, has been reoccupied by the allies.

A London dispatch today states that 200 members of the crew of the German cruiser Emden perished when she was destroyed by the British-Australian cruiser Sydney. Captain von Muller was saved.

A Petrograd news dispatch says that Berlin has approached Russia with overtures looking toward a cessation of hostilities. Russia rejected the proposal.

The Paris statement relating the fall of Dixmude shows that the Germans have been partially successful in their drive toward the coast, which was temporarily halted by the cutting of dykes in the lower valley of the Yser River. It stated that the battle had been resumed with great ferocity between Nieuport and the River Lys.

This is the first time since the Yser Valley was flooded that Nieuport has been mentioned in an official report. This town is on the coast on the extreme left end of the allies' line.

Armentieres, north of Lille, is under artillery fire for the fifth time. The linen factories are in ruins, along with the town hall, the railway station and especially all the dwellings. The town's people have fled to the coast. The artillery duel in that region is proceeding night and day.

Furious street fighting has occurred in confines eight miles

The Nation's Imperative Duty Is to Build Up the Navy

The news from Washington that the Navy Department has completed plans and will presently invite bids for a new type of submarine, twice the size of any now in existence, with a speed of twenty-one knots and a cruising radius of about three thousand five hundred miles, is both interesting and important.

These new craft are to be built under the Naval Appropriation bill passed by the present Congress. Though almost revolutionary in design, it cannot be said that in authorizing them Congress was in any way stimulated by the achievements of the submarines in the present war, because the bill was passed before the death-dealing Weddinger, with his prosaically-named U-9, began his career of calamity for the British navy.

Indeed, the development of this new type of submersible ship does not in any way indicate that the authorities of our navy have precipitately decided, in face of the record of the German submarines, that the battleship foundation for the navy must go. No well-equipped observer of naval strategy is ready for that decision yet. Perhaps the naval actions of the European war may relegate dreadnoughts to the scrap heap, but it is too early yet to forecast that result.

In any event, the chief importance about this bit of naval news is the assurance it gives to the country that at least something is being done to keep our navy up with the development of other fighting forces, and adequate to the needs of the country.

The Administration professes itself entirely satisfied with the results of the recent election. If that be true it need not bother further with politics for a year at least to come. The measures which have been labelled "the new freedom" and "the emancipation of business" have been enacted. The Administration need waste no time in boasting over them. The country will put them to the test.

The way, therefore, is clear for the Administration and the Congress it controls to give effect to this pledge of the Baltimore platform:

> "The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe Doctrine and was sponsor for the new navy will continue faithfully to observe the Constitutional requirements to provide and maintain AN ADEQUATE AND WELL-PROPORTIONED NAVY, SUFFICIENT TO DEFEND AMERICAN POLICIES, PROTECT OUR CITIZENS AND UPHOLD THE HONOR AND DIGNITY OF THE NATION."

Of course, we have not that kind of a navy now. Equally, of course, the present Administration during its two years in office has done nothing to fulfil the pledge of the platform makers.

The Secretary of the Navy has been exceedingly active in his efforts to make the navy a sort of school for technical education. He successfully banished from the wardrooms all light wine and beer. He was balked only of his design to "democratize" the service by having enlisted men and officers mess together on occasion by the hint that there were many colored seamen in the service. North Carolina Democracy balked at that. But with all his restless activity the Secretary of the Navy left it to a Republican Congressman—Mr. Gardner, of Massachusetts—to tell such truths about the navy as that it lacks more than 40,000 men of the number needed to man its ships, and that in an era of torpedo warfare we have but ONE TORPEDO TO EACH GUN!

IT TAKES MONTHS TO ENLIST MEN AND MAKE MAN-O'-WAR'S MEN OUT OF THEM. IT TAKES A YEAR TO BUILD A TORPEDO.

The savagery of the war now raging in Europe, the cruel sorrow and suffering it inflicts on humanity, the irreparable loss it has imposed upon whole communities, are enough to horrify the world.

But however shocked our own people may be, however greatly our hatred of war may be enhanced by the dreadful spectacle, does not affect the possibility of our being next to suffer in a like way.

It is the business—the immediate, solemn, imperative duty—of the Administration to take up at once the question of the unpreparedness of our navy, and to lay before Congress, when it meets in December, a full programme for the development and perfection of our fighting force on the ocean.

Common sense demands it. Loyalty to the Baltimore platform compels it. The instinct for self-preservation of the Administration officials should insist upon it. And, above all, national safety and national dignity make such action for the strengthening of the navy imperative and vital.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The free transfer system of Boston's street railway system makes it possible to ride twenty miles through beautiful streets for five cents and that this is possible nowhere else in the world?

Wedded to a Red Flower Vase

A Matrimonial Idea of the Chinese Which Might Solve a Good Many Difficulties for Our Own Civilization

By DOROTHY DIX

In China, whose civilization was old before ours began, and which is therefore correspondingly advanced in many particulars, they have solved one phase of the matrimonial problem.

According to a recent newspaper dispatch, a young Chinese lady, belonging to one of the most aristocratic families, has just been married to a red flower vase—the vase being a substitute for the young man to whom she was betrothed and who died just before the wedding. The prospective bride wished to enjoy the dignities and freedom that belonged to a matron, and that are denied to a maid, but her heart was in the grave with her dead lover, and she couldn't bear to think of marrying another man, so the red flower vase was substituted for the bridegroom and the marriage celebrated with all due pomp and ceremony.

For many years America has been sending money and missionaries without stint to convert what we call, in our fatuous folly, the "heathen Chinee." It is now China's turn to make a courteous missionary retort and put us under eternal obligation by introducing in America the pleasing custom of marrying a woman to an inanimate object when no animate object applies for the job.

In this country there are not enough men to go around, even if all would wed, and every year piles up the deficit in the matrimonial bureau. What should be done about the surplus woman problem has been a question that seemed unanswerable until the acute Chinese came along with a suggestion so simple and so direct that it leaves us wondering we didn't guess the answer to the conundrum long ago. Just popularize the idea of marrying a flower vase, and you have done away, once and for all, with old maids, girl bachelors, and all the disadvantages of spinsterhood.

A far greater number of women marry just for the sake of being married than we ever suspect. They are not lovers at heart. They are not irresistibly drawn to particular men. Their instincts are for celibacy, and left to themselves they would far rather be free than burdened with the cares and responsibilities of husbands and children.

But they want to write "Mrs." instead of "Miss" before their names. They want the status of the married woman. Above all, they want the liberty of the married woman, for we cling to the absurd tradition that a single woman, though she be ninety, is still a debutante, and that she must be chaperoned, and that it is indelicate for her to hear or speak of any topic that isn't dressed up in white muslin and girdled with a blue sash.

Also, that the single woman must, perforce, live with her friends or her family, no matter how much she would like to set up an establishment of her own.

To this large set of single women, rich old maids, and business women earning good salaries, a red flower vase husband would fill a matrimonial ideal, and they would espouse it with an enthusiasm that no mere man ever evokes.

In reality, the red flower vase husband is not as startling an innovation as it seems. Many a woman has discovered, to her sorrow, that she has married a whiskey bottle instead of a man, and she would be glad enough to trade him off for a red flower vase if she could.

There are men so full of vanity and conceit and self-importance that their wives had just as well have united themselves to a balloon or any other sort of gas bag. There are husbands who are so silent in their own homes that a store dummy could be substituted for them without their wives ever finding out the difference, and there are other women who believed that they were marrying tender Romeos who ascertained after marriage that they tied up with surly bears that growl whenever you speak to them.

There are husbands in plenty who are so sour and tart that their wives would find a vinegar jug a sweet companion beside them. There are other men so immersed in their business and professions that their wives would have had just as much sympathy and companionship if they had married a ledger, or a law book, which they could have shut up when it made them tired.

Also, there are men who wouldn't find marrying a red flower vase instead of a wife such a bad idea, for there are men who have found out after marriage that instead of a living, loving human woman they have led nothing but a fashion plate to the altar. There are other men who have ascertained to their sorrow that they married talking machines that never run down and that they can't shut off, and still other men are married to weeping women who are nothing but hydrants, with the tap always turned on.

Of course, there are some disadvantages in having a flower vase spouse. As a husband he might go broke, or get full, like a human husband. As a wife she would never be anything but a parlor ornament; but the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, and the Chinese plan is earnestly recommended to those sociologists who are disturbed over our diminishing matrimonial rate.

As a happy expedient for the superfluous woman, and the old bachelor who would like to be free though married, the red flower vase substitute for a husband or wife takes the wedding cake.

200 PERISH AS THE EMDEN IS DESTROYED

By HERBERT TEMPLE.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Two hundred men perished when the German cruiser Emden was destroyed by the Australian cruiser Sydney, on Monday morning, but her valiant commander, Captain Karl von Muller, and fifteen Prussian nobility of Hohenzollern, Twenty-third Regiment, naval lieutenant, were rescued and are prisoners.

Official announcement to this effect was made today by the government press bureau. The Admiralty has given assurance that all the honors of war be accorded the prisoners taken from the Emden, and that the German officers be allowed to retain their swords.

It is also stated that in addition to the officers and saiors of the Emden who lost their lives, thirty were wounded. Prince Francis Joseph, last heard to be the ranking branch of the Hohenzollern family, he has been attached to the Emden since he was given his commission.

The Emden arrived off Keeling, in the Cocos Island group, early Monday morning, slipping in shore out of the mist like a dying phantom. A party of forty-three men were landed, who smashed the British wireless station. While they were engaged in this work the Sydney, which had been close on the trail of the gallant German craft, drew within range and the Emden, taking fright, steamed away at full speed.

The Sydney opened fire at long range and the Emden, being outmaneuvered, was compelled to stand by and give battle. The Emden, owing to the position in which she found herself, could not resort to flight. The first few shells fired from the Emden were accurately aimed and some of them struck the Australian ship, but later the gunners seemed to lose their nerve, for their shells went wide of the mark.

Early in the fight a shot from the Sydney tore away one of the German ship's funnels and soon another went smashing to the deck. An exploding shell, which struck the German craft on the stern, set her on fire and the smoke, rolling upward, from the ship, further hindered the German gunners.

The fight lasted a little more than an hour and then the German ship was run ashore upon a rocky ledge. She was burning fiercely both fore and after by this time and the surviving sailors were leaping into the water. The Sydney fired a few more shells into the stranded hulk and then sent small boats to pick up the survivors.

The Emden was clearly outclassed all through the fighting. When the Sydney withdrew from the scene of the fighting the shattered hulk was going to pieces.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

GERMANS LOSE 100,000 IN VISTULA FIGHT

from Lille. The opposing soldiers fought in the streets with fixed bayonets, while sharpshooters kept up a murderous fire from the roofs of the houses.

Each side is giving the other no rest. Assaults by the Germans are met with counter attacks by the French, British and Belgians, and the sound of artillery is never stilled.

TERRIFIC LOSSES.

From the unusual losses inflicted upon the English and their Indian troops it is evident that the Germans have concentrated their attacks against these contingents. The British are running short of officers, and calls are being received from the front for sergeants, captains, colonels and lieutenants to fill up the gaps.

Despite the official claims of the War Office that all German assaults around Ypres have been repulsed, unofficial dispatches from behind the front now say that the battle line lies west of that Belgian town.

According to a dispatch today from Flushing, Holland, the allies are bombarding the German positions along the coast, both from land and sea, in an attempt to drive the Kaiser's troops back into the interior of Belgium and thus remove the danger of an attack on the English coast. British and French aviators are making daring flights and dropping bombs upon the German trenches. On Tuesday the British warships shelled the Germans north of the Yser for several hours. Attempting to destroy a German division at Blankenberghe on the coast southeast of Zeebrugge, an aviator, either English or French, dropped a number of bombs.

The advance of the victorious Russian armies continues in East and West Poland, according to Petrograd advices today.

GERMANS LOSE 100,000.

The Army Messenger gives out a statement that the victory won by the Russians in Western Poland was one of the most glorious in the history of the empire.

"More than 100,000 German and Austrian soldiers were killed, wounded or taken prisoners," it says. "The enemy sacrificed regiment after regiment in his attempt to cross the Vistula between Ivangorod and Warsaw.

The Czar's forces in this region are pushing the campaign for the capture of the mighty Austrian fortress of Cracow. The Austro-German forces driven from Czestochowa have rallied upon the upper Vistula, and hard fighting is going on there. An official statement made today says that the resistance to the Russian attacks cannot be long continued at this point, however.

Official advices from the front state that as a result of the Russian advance on Cracow panic prevails in that city, and that General Kuk, the Austrian commandant of the Galician fortress, has notified all non-combatants to leave. Special trains are carrying the inhabitants into Austria and Hungary.

Petrograd also reports that another great raid by the Russian Cossacks under Rennenkampf is under full swing in East Prussia.

Russian cavalry has already reached the outskirts of Soldau. Three railroads in that region have been torn up and a dozen railroad bridges destroyed.

Continuation of the raid into the district north of Soldau will cut off the German army that invaded the Suwalki district and was driven back upon the Mazuran Lakes.

The completeness of the Russian victory along the Vistula is emphasized, the Messenger reports, by the capture of three German generals—von Lichert at Lodz, von Mackenzen at Cieradz, and Mathisce.

GERMANS FLY NEAR LONDON.

Flight of the first hostile airship over England is told in today's dispatches.

Military experts believe it presages the coming of the great Zeppelin and Taube fleet fitted out by the Kaiser.

The dispatch telling of the initial "invasion" comes to the London News from Dover, reading:

"As the result of a report that an airship had been sighted over Sheerness the searchlight corps was busy all night.

"Later the airship was reported over Harwieh.

"Firing was heard on the eastern cliffs between 2 and 2:50 o'clock this morning."

It was asserted a month ago, ostensibly on the authority of a German officer, that air attacks on Britain would begin with the coming of the November fogs.

London is only thirty-eight miles west of Sheerness. Harwich is about forty miles northeast of Sheerness. The aeroplane is believed to have flown from a point in Belgium.

A London dispatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph Company reports of a revolt in Constantinople. It says: "It is learned on reliable authority that a huge conspiracy has broken out against the Germans and Young Turks. The chief conspirator have been shot."

German official lists of casualties, according to a Copenhagen dispatch, give the killed, wounded and missing officers and men at a total of 509,000. One list contains 29,281 names.

An official report from Tiflis states that the Turks attacked the Russian position at Koprikoi with artillery on Monday, and that a violent battle is in progress in that region. The same dispatch says that the Turkish fleet has apparently separated to attack various undefended Russian ports.

An official dispatch from Constantinople at Berlin states that Turkish troops have occupied Sheikzar Fort at El-Arish, Egypt, on the Mediterranean, and captured four guns. It also declares that the Russians on the Caucasus frontier have been driven back to their second line of defence.

News from Athens that Bulgaria has called up six classes is regarded as an indication that the Bulgarians will soon enter the war.

Boston Man Shot in Germany for Striking a Uhlan

George Wheeler of Boston, an American travelling in Germany at the outbreak of the war, was shot by a firing squad because he knocked down an officer of Uhlans, according to a detailed story printed by the London Graphic.

The Graphic says that Phil Rader, newspaper correspondent and aviator from Los Angeles, and George Wheeler, of Boston, were arrested and brought before a German court. Wheeler objected to being searched and said: "This is a —— of a way to treat an American." An officer said: "If you don't like this treatment you ought to stay at home." Wheeler swung around and knocked the officer flat with one blow.

For a few seconds not a word was said. Then a command was issued in German. Wheeler was unchained from Rader and led away. The next morning Rader saw Wheeler placed against a wall and killed by thirty bullets from a firing squad. His body was thrown into a shallow grave. Rader was sent to Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—On our left wing the battle was resumed yesterday morning with great ferocity, particularly between Nieuport and the Lys. In a general way our front has been maintained. Despite the violence and the strength of the German attacks, directed against certain of our points of support to the north of Nieuport, we succeeded in reoccupying Lombaertsyde and advancing beyond that locality, but towards the end of the day the Germans succeeded in taking Dixmude from us.

We continue to hold the outlying districts around this village. In the canal from Nieuport to Ypres, which has been firmly held, the battle was very hot. The British troops themselves attacked at numerous points, checked the enemy.

On the rest o fthe front the general situation remains unchanged except that there has been some progress by our ofrces to the north of Soissons and in the region to the west of Vailly on the right bank of the Aisne. Around the two points atmospheric conditions have permitted only minor engagements. These had successful results for our forces. We have routed a detachment of the enemy from Polocourt, three kilometres to the north of the forest of Parroy.

SEWING CIRCLE GIRLS OF BACK BAY PLAN TO HELP IN WAR RELIEF

At the next business session of the Sewing Circle League, composed of Back Bay society girls, it is probable that money will be voted from the treasury for relief of European refugees.

The next meeting comes early in December, and there is talk among the members now that the league, which is recognized for its philanthropic activities, should be a factor in war relief work.

Many Bostonians may be interested to know that the work of the Sewing Circle and of the Sewing Circle League have been explained in detail by a Boston society girl to one of the foremost German militarists with an idea toward duplicating them in Berlin.

The girl is Miss Frances R. Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Porter of No. 32 Brimmer street, Back Bay. The German military authority who asked for a description of the Boston organization is none the less than General Frederich von Bernhardi, hero of the Franco-German war, and author of "Germany and the Next War." This is the volume which, of all writings, is held to reveal the driving spirit of Prussian militarism.

The redoubtable warrior met Miss Frances R. Porter and her sister, Miss Mary Otis Porter, while the Porter girls were traveling abroad. Miss Frances told him all about the Boston society girls' organizations.

The terms "Sewing Circle" and "Sewing Circle League" are often used loosely by Boston people, who fail to understand the specific differences between the two organizations.

In describing the two organizations Miss Porter said:

"The Sewing Circle proper, consists of the debutantes of any given season. They number about fifty a year. Following their going out they are ex-officio members of the Sewing Circle League during the next six years, after which they become associate members.

DATES BACK TO 1905.

"The Sewing Circle League dates back to 1905 and is founded on the plan of the junior leagues of New York, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Montreal, San Francisco and Amsterdam. The prime requisite for membership in the league, which now numbers nearly five hundred, is that the candidate be actively interested in charity or philanthropic work.

"Now and then we find a debutante who is not interested in the principle of service for which we stand. In that case she is refused admittance to the league. And again, we have had to expel a few members of the league because of their persistent refusal to show interest in the work for which we are organized."

Miss Alice Thorndike is president of the Sewing Circle League and Miss Penelope Parkman is president of this year's Sewing Circle.

Can They Win Alone?

The odds are big against your kidneys, for alone they must face foes like uric acid, poisonous serum, rheumatism, dropsy, Bright's disease and many others. Your system has to depend on the kidneys to subdue these enemies. But the kidneys should be reinforced. They should be given two allies—first, Carroll Lavilla, and then Doan's Kidney Pills to stimulate them in their struggle against the people's attacks. Doan's Kidney Pills are in successful use all over the world. Here's a home case:

Boston Testimony:

J. T. Kelly, prop. plumbing shop, 592 Commercial St., Boston, says: "My kidney trouble came on from a strain. I was so bad that I was laid up in bed for sixteen weeks. No one knows how I suffered from backache. The doctor treated me, but got no relief, so I got Doan's Kidney Pills. Three boxes permanently cured me."

"It takes all my strength."

Hold Man Caught After Gun Duel

Neil A. Austin of Mainsburg, Pa., was held in $1,500 for the Norfolk Grand Jury in Dedham today on a charge of breaking into the home of Frank Bailey on Hillside avenue, Needham. The police say that Neil and another man ran from the house when Mr. and Mrs. Bailey returned. Neil was chased into a hencoop by Patrolman Toon. They exchanged revolver shots and Neil was taken. Neither prisoner nor officer was hit. The other man escaped.

North Beacon Street Bridge Cars Stopped

How to Peel Off a Weatherbeaten Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by dirt, wind or cold. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worn-out skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving the entire face of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin, forming the new complexion is one of captivating freshness. One ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any coarse, sallow, freckled, lined or sallow skin. Apply before retiring, washing off in morning.

Many skins wrinkle, sadly with every smile that flits. An excellent whole-measure is that it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. This remarkable lotion is also a wonderful astringent for sagging tissues. ADVERTISEMENT.

"IDEAL LOVE" OF CAMERONS IS SHATTERED

The "ideal love romance" of Evan S. Cameron and his fair Southern bride, wedded in Washington in 1909, has been shattered.

Mystery surrounds the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Cameron, formerly of No. 142 Beacon street, Back Bay, against Cameron, a former Princeton football player, whom she charges with cruelty and lack of support.

She also asks for the custody of their child, Donald H. Cameron, born November 29, 1911, and alimony.

Mrs. Cameron is a young woman of striking beauty and has been prominent in social activities hereabouts. Her husband, who is now living in New York city, was formerly secretary and treasurer of a large Boston electrical firm. Mrs. Cameron before marriage was a Southern girl.

The first hint of trouble for the Camerons came January 22, 1913, after they had removed from the residence to which Cameron had brought his fair Southern bride to No. 49 St. Mary's street, in the exclusive Longwood section.

The Camerons were returning after midnight from the Harvard-Princeton game when Cameron encountered in the hallway a man who was a stranger to him.

Cameron started to eject the intruder. A scuffle followed, in which William H. Grant, thirty, a chauffeur, was said to have assaulted Cameron with a knife.

The stranger and his chauffeur fled. After pursuit by the police, Grant was arrested. He proved to be a chauffeur for Leonard H. Spaulding of Everett avenue, Winchester, a Lowell shoe manufacturer. Grant and Spaulding were sentenced to six months each in the House of Correction for assaulting Cameron. Both appealed.

The testimony showed that during the assault an unknown woman ran down the stairs, crying: "Commodore, what are you doing? Stop this!" It was also brought out that Mrs. Cameron was assisted by Annie Ryan, her maid, in pulling Spaulding off Cameron, who was slashed under the chin.

White House Drops Official Dinners

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—There will be no official dinners and receptions at the White House this Winter. This was the general understanding in social Washington today when the usual time for issuing the dates for these functions passed without any announcement being made.

While the main reason for dispensing with these events is said to be that the White House is in mourning for the death of Mrs. Wilson, it was pointed out by officials that the President, abolishing the formal dinners and receptions avoided an embarrassing situation. A dinner and a reception always has been given in honor of the diplomatic corps. At present, however, the envoys here of Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan are not on speaking terms with those of Germany, Austria and Turkey because of the war.

JONES DIVORCE BIG SURPRISE IN BOSTON

Allen C. Jones, the proprietor of the New American House, has been divorced by his wife, formerly Miss Ruth Robbins of Roxbury, on statutory grounds. She was cashier at the hotel when he met and wed her.

Mrs. Jones was granted a divorce by the California courts after she and her brother, Winthrop Robbins, now steward at the Hotel Somerset, had testified. Mrs. Jones is now in London.

The divorce was granted last January and, under the California laws, will become absolute next January. Though the trial took place ten months ago the actual news of the decree did not become known in Boston until today. Confirmation of the case was obtained from Mrs. Frank E. Robbins of No. 23 Walton street, Roxbury, mother of Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones said today:

"Yes, it is true. Mrs. Jones, my daughter, was granted a divorce from her husband, Allen C. Jones, last January in San Francisco. My daughter brought a libel against Mr. Jones on statutory grounds and the suit was uncontested.

"My son, Winthrop Robbins, now employed as steward at the Hotel Somerset, and a former employe at the American House under Mr. Jones, went on to San Francisco as a witness at the trial of the case and testified concerning Mr. Jones' habits.

"Neighbors have asked me if there was any truth in a report which came from some unknown source to the effect that my daughter was about to marry again. I know nothing of any such impending marriage on the part of my daughter.

"The divorce decree obtained by Mrs. Jones in San Francisco will not become absolute under the California statutes until one year from the date it was granted. That would make it impossible for either my daughter or Mr. Jones to marry again before next January at the very earliest. But, so far as I know, neither party is thinking of marrying again right away.

"My daughter is at present in London, where she went last March after securing her divorce, for the purpose of obtaining a change of scene in order that she might rest and forget her shattered romance. She is an accomplished musician and vocalist, and her physician recommended the trip abroad as beneficial to her voice which was affected by the severity of our New England climate.

"Mr. Jones was ordered to pay my daughter alimony in a reasonable sum. This she was receiving regularly up to my last letter from her.

"She would be the last person on earth to want the society of Mr. Jones after having left him voluntarily when she learned of his misconduct. This other woman broke up my daughter's home. Knowing Allen C. Jones as I do, to be such a refined and, on the whole, decent, young man, I never could understand how he could have preferred the company of this other woman to the society of my daughter. People say that the other woman was the more to blame. I do not have any hard feelings against Mr. Jones. He is above the average as a man."

RUTH PARKINSON, six-year-old Wellesley girl, on the dangerous list in the Newton Hospital as a result of being run down by an auto.

WELLESLEY GIRL IS BADLY HURT BY AUTO

Ruth Parkinson, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Parkinson of Washington street, Wellesley Hills, is dangerously injured at the Newton Hospital as a result of being knocked down by an automobile in Wellesley Hills square yesterday.

She has a fracture at the base of her skull.

The child, on her way home from the Alice Phillips School, darted in front of a machine driven by George E. Connors, chauffeur for B. E. Fuller of South Framingham.

Dr. Stanwood and Dr. Schofield treated the child in a nearby house and when she reached the hospital an operation was performed, but her condition is still so serious that she is on the dangerous list.

Faure, Who Wrote 'The Palms' Is Dead

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The death is announced of Jean Baptiste Faure, eighty-four, the baritone singer, who wrote two books of songs, including the famous sacred solo, "The Palms." His wife was Mme. Lefebre, a noted opera singer.

Whitman in Movies at National Theatre

"Smashing the Vice Trust," the motion picture which helped to elect District Attorney Whitman Governor of New York, will come to the National Theatre on November 16 for a limited engagement. It is in six parts and over 700 scenes, and Mr. Whitman appears in pictures for the first time. The work has been inspired by Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, Dr. Anna Shaw, president National Council of Women, and hundreds of others of similar standing.

Request Recalls Miss Quimby's Death

The pitiable fate of Harriett Quimby, the girl aviator who was killed at Squantum by the fall of her aeroplane on July 1, 1912, is recalled by an item in the New York courts today. Mrs. Ursula M. Quimby of New York city, mother of Harriett, has made application to the New York Surrogate to have the executor of the girl's estate, John A. Sleicher, file an accounting.

Prophecy Says U. S. Will Get Into War

LONDON, Nov. 11.—War news derived from purely psychic sources is contained in The Occult Messenger as follows:

"The United States, the most unlikely people of all, will put a finger in the Turkish pie. Greece, Bulgaria and Russia will be in Constantinople at Christmas. In the third and fourth weeks in November Russia will assuredly be victorious and tread German soil on the way to Berlin. The allies will make unexpected progress during the latter part of November."

are the choice of careful buyers of roofing.

You want to get your money's worth these days. Penco Shingles give you 100 cents value for every dollar expended.

The secret of their surprising durability is this—Penco Shingles are made of Hampton Sheets. This means iron (not steel). And nothing resists rust but iron. Ordinary metal shingles don't wear out—they rust out. Penco Shingles won't rust. Don't forget this.

Loxon Tile

is the highest type of roofing or siding made in sheets.

Made of the same rust-resisting Hampton Sheets as are Penco Shingles and heavily galvanized.

BLACK SILKS

OF QUALITY

—It has been brought to our attention that some stores quote lower prices for silks than we do.
—This has been the case during the past 49 years.
—We compete for quality only.
—Quality considered, our prices are always the lowest and you have the added advantage of perfect satisfaction in knowing that OUR silks are dependable.

A WEDDING GOWN OF 40 YEARS AGO

—We are exhibiting in our Tremont Street windows the wedding dress of Mrs. J. B. Currier, 42 Dale Street, Roxbury. She was married May 25th, 1875, and the dress was made of thirty yards of silk, bought from Shepard Norwell Company at $3.00 a yard, and made by the fashionable Winter Street dressmaker of that day.
—A woman's natural pride in her wedding dress has been deepened by the fact that after 40 years the silk is still strong and serviceable—although the dress has been worn on each anniversary of the wedding.

Mrs. Currier has kindly permitted us to exhibit the dress.

OUCH! LAME BACK RUB LUMBAGO OR BACKACHE AWAY

Kidneys cause Backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappear. You'll stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

Rub on, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" whenever you have sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains, as it is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

SLATER HOME WITH TALES OF WAR PERILS

Nelson Slater, son of Mrs. Horatio Slater, of No. 448 Beacon street, Back Bay, and famous as a big game hunter, returned to Boston today after exciting experiences in the war zone.

Young Slater loaned his automobile to officials of Paris and acted as their personal chauffeur. He also rendered valuable service to the Red Cross, carrying nurses and wounded soldiers from hospitals to railroad stations. He said today:

"When we arrived in Paris it was a pitiful sight to see the aged men and women of the streets, all the young men being actively engaged in warfare. By offering the government of France the use of my car I later was allowed to ship the machine from France to England. The car is now on the sea on its way back to this country.

"The suffering of foreigners where sons and fathers are at war is terrible, but those at home are confident of victory. In England especially the citizens are confident that the Germans will be beaten, while the Germans are equally confident of winning.

"Americans are being treated as well as can be expected, and I did not see any of the hardships reported by citizens returning to this country. Many tourists are remaining to see the outcome of the struggle. They are not being detained by the government."

Young Slater brought back with him many valuable skins of animals from the African jungles, which will be used in decorating the Back Bay mansion of his mother.

Open Lunch Room in Somerville School

One of the largest and most extensively equipped school lunch rooms in New England was opened today in the basement of the main building of the Somerville High School. Accommodations and equipment permit feeding 500 at one time. It is designed to provide an output for the product of forty second-year girls of the vocational school, of which Miss Mary H. Brown is principal. Miss Gertrude Luce, a graduate of the Vocational school, is manager of the teachers' lunch room, and Miss Marion Whitaker, who has had considerable experience in the management of restaurants, heads the administrative department of the students' lunch room.

BITTER ATTACK ON SIEGEL AT THEFT TRIAL

GENESEO, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Revelations of frenzied finance on a gigantic scale were promised by Assistant District Attorney Arthur Train, of New York County, when he resumed his opening address today in the trial of Henry Siegel, the New York merchant and banker, on trial here for grand larceny in connection with the failure of his stores and his private bank.

The conspiracy to secure loans upon worthless assets and to falsify the books extended over a period of nearly four years, Mr. Train told the jurors.

"One of the conspirators, Oscar A. Trail, has turned State's evidence and will be one of the witnesses to testify to the conspiracy," declared the prosecutor. "Trail was the confidential man of Henry Siegel, an officer in all these companies and the man selected by Siegel to audit the books, which Siegel himself had juggled. He will tell you how Siegel instructed him as early as 1904 to pad the merchandise account to the extent of $175,000."

Mr. Train said he would show how Siegel's Boston store had lost $2,500,000 and how in order to keep it alive he had poured millions into it from other stores and from his private bank in New York. The prosecutor declared, furthermore, that he would attempt to prove that:

1—Siegel lent $2,500,000 from his private bank, known as Henry Siegel & Co., to his stores without security.

2—The Fourteenth street store in New York city had lost $1,500,000 up to 1912.

3—The Simpson Crawford Company, in New York city, had lost $240,000 in 1911, 1912 and 1913.

4—And, finally, that the amounts and books were constantly falsified to fool the banks and the English investors who had purchased stock from the enterprises run by Siegel and Frank F. Vogel in New York.

Mr. Train's address was a bitter arraignment of Siegel and his associates, whom he termed "a crook." Among three tons of exhibits Mr. Train said were sets of false books, which were kept at the command of Siegel and Vogel. The prosecutor told the jurors that he would show how Prell was sent from New York to audit the books of the Siegel store in Boston so that the losses of that enterprise would not become known.

Money was taken from the private Siegel bank in New York by means of split checks for odd amounts, the Assistant District Attorney declared, so that no one would know the bank's funds were being eaten up by insolvent enterprises.

WOMAN LEADS STATE WAR ON CATTLE PLAGUE

Miss M. P. Sargent, chief clerk of the State Bureau of Animal Industry, is leading the Massachusetts fight against the hoof and mouth disease during the absence of Commissioner Wilson, who is in Washington conferring with federal officials.

Dr. Herbert E. Brown of Springfield has been designated by the National Bureau of Animal Industry to take charge of fighting the disease in Massachusetts. Dr. Brown will establish his headquarters in Boston today.

Importations of cattle into Vermont are forbidden under a State-wide quarantine order issued by Fred L. Davis, state Commissioner of Live Stock. This makes the fifteenth State placed under quarantine. No cases have been found in Vermont and the quarantine is a precautionary measure.

The placing of the quarantine on Vermont is expected by the commissioner to seriously reduce the milk supply in Boston drawn a large per cent of its milk supply from Vermont. It is possible the price of milk may be raised.

More positive cases of foot and mouth disease have been found in other herds in different parts of Massachusetts and several highly suspicious cases in several other parts.

Take These Five Models as Examples of the Values to Be Found Among

Filene Machine-Made Dresses

(Trade Mark Registered)

$1 to $9.50—No Higher

Here are five dresses at $7.50 and $9.50 that will feel at home in any company (excepting evening functions, and we have dainty party frocks here at the same low prices for such occasions.)

Figure the cost of the guaranteed serge or the silk used in these frocks, add the cost of the other materials, then a fair price for dress-making and compare the result with the prices we ask you to pay for the dresses ready to put on.

1—At $9.50—Redingote model in dark green mixture, silk braid bound, with black messaline sleeves.

2—At $9.50—Especially for stout figures. French serge, trimmed with black satin. Blue or black, in sizes up to 50; green up to 46.

3—At $9.50—Youthful model in dress corduroy, silk braid bound, with black messaline sleeves and collar. Either corduroy or messaline under-drop. Blue, black, brown, wistaria.

4—At $7.50—New circular skirt model in French serge, with pique collar and vestee and satin-covered buttons. Black, blue or brown.

5—At $9.50—Messaline afternoon frock, with the much-wanted deep crush girdle; white silk collar.

House Dresses at $1. Neat gingham dresses with gored skirts and white sailor collars and cuffs trimmed with bias bands of the material; pipings of plain color chambray. In gray, blue, pink or lavender checks and stripes.

Other styles in house dresses from $1 to $3.95. Many at $1.50 and $2.

This Machine-Made Dress Shop has been built up on the fundamental of providing new and desirable styles in carefully made dresses at the prices often paid for the other kind.

The organization covers the entire dress field—providing models for all types of figures and for all occasions—for morning, afternoon and evening—for street, house, reception and party wear.

The prices are $1, $2, $3.95, $5.85, $7.50 and $9.50. The stock is always very large, containing literally hundreds of models. The dress-making will stand close inspection. The materials are guaranteed.

TEETHING RASH DISFIGURED BABY

Cheeks Broken Out. Rash Became Hard, Crusty Surface. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed in a Week.

R. F. D. No. 3, Randolph Ctr., Vt.—"My baby's trouble began with a teething rash. Her cheeks were broken out. The rash became a hard crusty surface of bright red and would crack and bleed. Baby could not sleep on account of being so uncomfortable and she would scratch on account of its burning so. The breaking out disfigured her for the time being.

"I used ——— and powders but none of them did any good. The trouble had lasted three weeks before I got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed her face frequently with the Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment often during the day and I was just a week healing her." (signed) Mrs. E. G. Harrington, Mar. 20, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of these distressing eruptions. Sold throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address: postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

WOMEN VOLUNTEERS.

In stress and trouble the women of a nation are always to be counted upon. In Servia the women went to the front with muskets in their hands, they were as strong and brave as the men on the firing line. In this country few of our women escape the wearing troubles peculiar to their sex.

For every disease or ailment of a womanly character, no matter how recent or how long standing, the one sure, reliable remedy of proved merit is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Women should never experiment with unknown preparations; the risk is too great. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic, it's not a secret prescription, but its ingredients are printed on the wrapper.

Women are earnestly advised to take it for irregular or painful periods, backache, headache, displacement, catarrhal condition, hot flashes, sallow complexion and nervousness.

For girls about to enter womanhood, women about to become mothers and for the changing days of middle age Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should always be on hand.

Any medicine dealer can supply it in either liquid or tablet form. The cost is modest, the comparative benefits truly remarkable. Write Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for free 136-page book on woman's diseases. Every woman should have one.

NEW CONFESSION IN 'PRETTIEST GIRL' CASE

he took a spade along and dug the shallow grave where the body was found, that he later guided Dr. Dudley's automobile to the spot, that the grave was deepened with sticks till it would accommodate the body, that Perley was given the fur coat and told to take it away and hide it while the others finished burying the body, that the boy hid the coat in the first hiding place that offered itself and returned home.

Dr. Dudley's attorneys, however, will strenuously dispute this version of the affair. They will assert that when the girl died Ambrose Bridge, her sweetheart, was telephoned for. They claim they can show this by telephone records at Presque Isle.

They say Bridge hurried to the Pelletier home and took charge, arranging for the swift burial of the body.

As for Dr. Dudley, they claim he was miles away at the time party at the time of the girl's death and burial.

REPORT KNIFE FOUND.

A sensational report that Dr. Dudley had attempted to secrete a knife in his hall cell here startled the community today.

Dr. Dudley's food is taken to him by his cell by a "trusty." The "trusty" in collecting the dishes, missed the knife. When he turned the dishes over to the cook, the cook also missed the knife.

A search was at once instituted by the jail authorities. The report is that the knife was found, wrapped in a bit of brown paper and tucked into a crack in the wall of Dr. Dudley's cell.

SURPRISE PLANNED BY STATE.

Dr. Dudley is expected to be arraigned today, together with Alice Pellitier and Perley Pelletier, who are named as accessories. The State will charge, it is understood, that murder was done by administering poison—probably strychnine. The State likewise plans to spring a surprise at the arraignment.

Kate Michaud, whose confession revealed the crude burial place that gave a new turn to the entire case, will be the State's star witness. She is not under arrest as an accessory, a county official explained today, but has been surrendered by the bondsmen who on October 19 furnished bail for her appearance before the Grand Jury in the earlier stages of the case. Today she is in a cell, awaiting the call of the county officials.

CAMBRIDGE GIRL TO TESTIFY.

Ruth Deveney of Cambridge, who has told of hearing some of the conversation of the accused, will not be required as a witness before the Grand Jury, but is expected to testify at the trial if indictments are found.

That the prosecution is basing its murder charge on the poison theory is now admitted by an official prominent in the case. But the officials are not agreed on the type of poison.

When informed that counsel for Dr. Lionel E. Dudley felt that their client had been arrested on the graver charge simply to clap him into a cell, on evidence that could not be expected to establish homicide, the official replied: "We will have no trouble in proving a stronger motive than is contained in the original charge of malpractice."

Although Ambrose Bridge, Mildred Sullivan's sweetheart, is still under constant surveillance, no attempt has been made to arrest him. He will not be permitted to leave the village and is being "shadowed."

Relatives and friends are standing loyally by Dr. Dudley. Several local physicians visited him at his cell, as did his sister. She feels the arrest keenly and was in tears when she left his cell.

The doctor's aged father, who lives at Mapleton, has not yet been told of the plight of his son.

Ambrose Bridges and Kate Michaud have been put through new and searching examinations by the county authorities.

The difference answered the alleged confession of Kate Michaud, in which she laid the death of Mildred to Dr. Dudley, Alice Pellitier of Presque Isle, and her brother, Perley, by placing detectives on the trial of Miss Michaud and Bridges.

BELIEVES CONFESSION.

County Attorney Archibald announced that Kate Michaud was in his opinion, telling the truth. He refused to give out further details of her confession.

In addition to the charges of Dr. Dudley's attorneys that they have proof that Kate Michaud and Bridge were the real principals in the Sullivan girl's death, they are said to be basing their plans on the very thing that is also encouraging the county attorney in his prosecution—that is Kate Michaud's confession.

Miss Michaud said, according to the story gleaned from the authorities, that Alice Pellitier performed illegal surgery on Mildred and that Dr. Dudley was called afterward, but before her death. In this connection the Howdoin College examination is significant.

When told that Ambrose Bridge had waited to attend the funeral and was anxious to take a last look at the features of Mildred, the girl's mother laughed in derision and her grandmother, Mrs. Clara Carpenter, said:

"It's lucky for Ambrose Bridge he didn't attempt to enter the house while Millie was here. If he had I would have scalded him with a pot-ful of boiling water."

But less than a half hour before the funeral, members of the family saw him stroll solemnly past the Sullivan home and back again. When the hearse bearing the white casket covered with floral offerings passed through the village a little later, Bridge was playing pool.

COMFORTED BY PASTOR.

The second burial of the victim, this time in the family lot at Evergreen Cemetery, will long be remembered for the pathetic scenes that marked it.

Mildred's relatives and friends crowded the house to overflowing. Men and women were packed solidly in the little rooms and on the stairs and were great coats and furs, for Winter's sting is already here.

The grave diggers found it hard to dig Mildred's grave, the frost had sunk so deep. The casket, during the service, rested in the dining room, the largest room in the Sullivan home, covered with floral offerings.

The Rev. J. L. Hess, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, brought tears to the eyes of all by his prayer and eulogy. He comforted the parents and cautioned the mothers and fathers present to guard their children.

"This same danger may confront your daughters," said he. "Conditions in life are uncertain. You must watch your young and bring them up in the fear and love of God."

While Mrs. Hess, wife of the minister, and Miss Archibald were singing Mildred's favorite hymn, "Safe in the Wings," Mrs. Sullivan broke down and her sobs could be heard by those huddled around the front stoop. Today she is unstrung.

MAINE CLERGYMAN BLAMES CHURCH FOR SULLIVAN TRAGEDY

Pastor Who Officiated at Funeral Tells How She Could Have Been Spared.

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

A remarkable utterance, and one sure to provoke widespread discussion, has come out of the little Maine town of Houlton, where Mildred Sullivan lived during the latter years of her life, and where her funeral was held yesterday.

The utterance comes from the lips of the Rev. J. L. Hess, who officiated at Mildred Sullivan's funeral and who pronounced the eulogy over her.

PASTOR HESS' STATEMENT.

Mr. Hess is pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Houlton; the church to which Mildred Sullivan's parents belonged. And what Mr. Hess said was this:

"The Presbyterian Church of Houlton is responsible for Mildred Sullivan's death."

Whatever one may believe in the matter, it is impossible to hear this statement from Mr. Hess without the most serious concern.

"The Presbyterian Church of Houlton," he says—and it must be always remembered that he is pastor of that church, and that Mildred Sullivan's parents attended that church, "is responsible for Mildred Sullivan's death."

The first question that occurs to the average reader is—"How was the church responsible, and why?"

Mr. Hess explains in some detail what he means. He believes that upon the parents rests the first responsibility for the training of the child; but he also believes that the church shares that responsibility with the parent; and that in spiritual affairs, the church should do its part and must do its part in guiding the child.

MUST INTEREST CHILD.

The church must interest the child, he says. The church must gain the child's attention by offering the child what it wants; and when it has caught the child's attention, then the child can be guided in the way it should go.

Mr. Hess' idea is that the church should conduct a social club, perhaps with moving pictures as an adjunct. It is not a novel idea. Some experiments have indicated that it is a good one.

But certainly, the tragic end of Mildred Sullivan, so pretty, so happy, so well-meaning a child as ever grew up on the Maine potato-farms, has its lesson for parents, and churches and others upon whom the responsibility for moral welfare rests.

The greatest preacher in the world—if he preaches always to empty churches—does less work for the world's welfare than the poorest preacher with his word for good who has a mighty audience.

If the church is to hold its audience, if the church is to drive home its message, the church must first get people to listen. And the only way to get people to listen in the first place, is to tell them something they can understand, something that interests them, something they want to hear.

MUST DRAW THE PEOPLE.

Draw your congregation into the church first of all. That is what a church must do. Once the congregation is gathered it is possible to implant your message.

To get back to Mr. Hess of Houlton, who says:

"The Presbyterian Church of Houlton is responsible for Mildred Sullivan's death."

Mr. Hess says Mildred Sullivan did not come to church. Doubtless she came to Sunday School, as a girl. But gradually she found church failed to interest her, failed to hold her attention. And she ceased to come.

Mr. Hess believes the first duty of a church is to catch the interest and the attention of the folk in the parish and then, secondarily, to drive home the church's message.

He believes that a church which fails to hold attention fails to drive home its message.

EMPTY CHURCH A SIGN.

He believes that an empty church is a sign—not of the people's wickedness, but of the church's failure.

He believes that the church cannot sit back and say: "What we have to say is for your own good. If you care not to listen—so much the worse for you."

He believes that the church should rather say: "We have something vital to say to you. But we cannot say it unless we get your attention. Therefore, to get your attention, we will be interested in the things which interest you. We will enter your life—not ask you to enter ours. Our duty is to serve you, and we propose to do it by first interesting you, and then telling you what we have to say."

I wonder if some of my readers have not their own views of this matter of religion, and religious duty, and how religion's duty should be done.

The United States has come to such a pass that there is a constant cry—the people are forgetting their churches.

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?

What is the solution of the problem? Should the church maintain its remote exactity and wait for the people to come hacks; or should the church follow after, and overtake the people, and win back their interest and their devotion—for the people's good?

What do YOU think about it. What do you think of Mr. Hess' statement—"The Presbyterian Church of Houlton is responsible for Mildred Sullivan's death."

It is a terrible indictment of modern religion which Mr. Hess has uttered. What do you say? Is he right?

Could the church of Houlton, by proper methods, have won and held Mildred Sullivan's confidence? Could the church have brought home to her the knowledge which would have saved her? Did the church fail? Is the real guilt for this terrible tragedy at the church's door?

What is the answer to these absorbing questions?

Dramatis Personae In Sullivan Tragedy

MILDRED LEAH SULLIVAN—The laughing girl of seventeen, whose beautiful eyes and hair won her the title "Prettiest Girl in Aroostook." Early in September she went to Presque Isle to stay during the fair. On the night of September 4 she disappeared.

DR. LIONEL DUDLEY—Colby graduate, expert surgeon, who was asked to attend Miss Sullivan. First arrested in Boston on a statutory charge, then held as a fugitive from justice, he was taken to Maine and put under bonds on a charge of malpractice. His arrest three days ago on a murder charge heralded a new sensation.

KATHERINE MICHAUD—A Canadian girl, with some skill as a nurse, who met Mildred Sullivan in Presque Isle. She was arrested in Boston as a fugitive from justice, held in Maine on the same charge as Dr. Dudley, and now has confessed the details of the death of Mildred Sullivan and her midnight burial.

AMBROSE BRIDGE—A good-looking young laborer, who went to Houlton and hired a room in the Sullivan home. Mildred at first detested him, but later went to Presque Isle for the fair at his invitation. He introduced her to Katherine Michaud. He has admitted he was responsible for her condition.

ALICE PELLITIER—Who first appeared in the case when she hired a carriage to take Mildred Sullivan to her home, where Mildred died. She was arrested in Boston with Dr. Dudley on statutory charges, held as a fugitive, and held in Maine as an accessory to the murder of Mildred.

ETTA PELLITIER—Arrested in Boston on statutory charges, then as a fugitive, she was taken to Maine, but was released. She was at Old Orchard till after Mildred died.

PERLEY PELLITIER—Now arrested as an accessory to the murder; he had not previously filled any prominent part in the mystery, and the State's case against him is obscure.

FRED PELLITIER—Father of the Pellitier girls. He has told the police that he came home on the night Mildred Sullivan died in his house and saw a girl in bed, but thought it was his daughter. He dropped into bed himself in a drunken stupor and slept without hearing the removal of the body.

MRS. FRED PELLITIER—Mother of the Pellitier girls. She says Mildred Sullivan's visit to her home occurred while she was at the Presque Isle fair, and that she knows nothing about it.

MRS. CORA CARPENTER—Grandmother of Mildred Sullivan. A firm believer in spiritualism, she refused to believe Mildred was dead. Dr. Lionel E. Dudley felt that their Dr. Lionel E. Dudley felt that their client had been arrested on the graver charge simply to clap him into a cell, on evidence that could not be expected to establish homicide, the official replied: "We will have no trouble in proving a stronger motive than is contained in the original charge of malpractice."

MRS. GEORGE SULLIVAN—Mother of Mildred, who likewise was buoyed by her belief in the stories of mediums till the body was actually found. Now she is in a state of collapse.

GEORGE SULLIVAN—Father of Mildred, a potato grower and prosperous farmer.

RALPH SULLIVAN—Elder brother of Mildred. Other brothers and sisters are Harry, Donald, Clayton and Dorothy.

BERNARD ARCHIBALD—County Attorney of Aroostook County.

FRED MELVILLE—An uncle of Mildred Sullivan. At his house the girl expected to stay during the Presque Isle fair. He led the posse that found the girl's body.

DR. A. E. GRAVES—A young Presque Isle physician who was called but refused to treat Mildred Sullivan.

DENNIS MARKIE—Driver of the "Ten-Cent Bus" in Presque Isle, who drove Alice Pellitier, Kate Michaud and Mildred Sullivan from the home of Mrs. Southard to the Pellitier house, where she died.

MRS. A. E. SOUTHARD—A kind, motherly Presque Isle woman, who took Katherine Michaud and Mildred Sullivan as boarders during the fair.

Death of Girl Has Its Lesson for Parents as Well as for the Churches.

"No Alum"

must be the watchword when the housewife buys baking powder.

Alum is well known to be a powerful astringent, and should never be used in food.

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M. D., of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "I consider the use of alum baking powder highly injurious to health."

Food economy now, more than ever, demands the purchase and use of those food articles of known high quality and absolute purity and healthfulness.

BABY SAVING EXPOSITION IS OPEN TODAY

Infant saving is the vital topic at the exhibition of the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality open today at the Public Library.

An interesting exhibit is that of the Milk and Baby Hygiene Association in Room 11 on the ground floor of the Library. It includes a stand of flags of thirty-five different nations whose babies are treated in Boston. Here one learns that three years ago Boston ranked seventh in the reduction of its infant death rate, but in 1914 jumped to third place. Only New York and St. Louis are ahead of Boston in this respect.

In the courtyard of the Library are many interesting features. Here are photographs of children who have suffered cruel abuse from their parents.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

ANCIENTS TALKING AGAIN OF HAVING A "REGULAR" UNIFORM

The horrors of war were brought sharply home to Boston today in the news that the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is thinking of getting another uniform.

The Ancients show only forty uniforms now. When the full company is marching it reminds one of that colorless gray, almost un-seable German host—it is so different.

But Captain James D. Coody of the Ancients, who went to the Star Spangled Banner centennial at Baltimore, has returned with the demand for a new and distinctive uniform—one that will show that the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston is the oldest military organization in the country.

It has always seemed to admiring spectators that, if the Ancients have a sufficiency of one particular thing, it is uniforms.

A parade of the company is a sight never to be forgotten. There are 700 men in the company. The 700 display at least forty different uniforms.

The idea is this: Most of the Ancients have belonged to military or semi-military bodies. Some of them have been officers in the regular army, generals and such. Others are now in the State militia. Others were at West Point or Annapolis.

Uniform that Ancient and Honorable Artillery tried to adopt two years ago and then discarded.

THERE IS LATITUDE.

The Ancients' rule is that any member may wear the uniform he wore in service, whether he was a major in the Civil War or a high private in the sham battles of the militia's mimic wars today.

This gives opportunity for tremendous latitude of color, design and ornament. For instance, one may see in the same parade of Ancients the following uniforms:

Boston Fusiliers.
Lancers.
Old Continentals.
Minute Men (buff and blue).
Veterans of 1812.
Governor's Footguards of Connecticut.
Seventy-Second New York.
Amoskeag Veterans.
Grand Army of the Republic.
United Spanish War Veterans.
First and Second Corps Cadets.
British Veterans' Association.
New York Old Guard.
West Point or Annapolis.

About 200 parade in the regular Ancients' uniform. Oh, yes, there is a "regular" Ancients' uniform, in addition to the different ones that most of them wear.

There has to be a "regular" one, so that a man who doesn't happen to belong to any other military organization ((full order or half-portion) may have something to wear when he joins the Ancients.

The "regular" one is a German bell cap of blue, with gold braid, long dark blue coat with red trimmings and light blue doeskin trousers with red stripes.

IT IS BEWILDERING.

But, when a member has been a general in the old regular army and is entitled to wear the gold braid that goes with his retiring rank, he isn't going to give all that up for the Ancients' "regular" dress. Hence the bewildering and eye-dazzling variety of color, style and equipment that the Ancients' line now shows.

The years ago, before the Ancients were crossing the water, effort was made to have uniform dress, which should be worn by all the company and should be distinctive of the Ancients.

A committee on uniform was named and matters went along swimmingly. The 200 who have been wearing the present Ancients' dress—the blue one with red trimmings—because they had no gaudier one to sport, were not displeased at the prospect of all members being on the same level.

But some of the retired generalissimos majors and other gold-lace wearers, who have brilliant uniforms of their own, allowed they'd be hanged if they'd give up their own aurora borealis display for any common dress.

So the "new uniform" party said: "Let's forget it," and they did.

But the matter will not down, for many of the Ancients do feel that the dear old company should have a distinctive and handsome dress that all may wear once in a while anyhow.

Plan Contest on Reason for Title Given Hodge Play

William Hodge has received so many letters upon the subject of the title of "The Road to Happiness" that he has decided to inaugurate a unique play contest, in which those who witness the play will be asked to write a small essay, not to exceed a long paragraph or two, giving their interpretation of its significance as applied to the inner lesson of the drama. All the conditions of this contest and the nature of the prizes will be announced withing a few days.

"Naming a play is more difficult than naming a baby," remarks Mr. Hodge. "You have to please only a few at the most, in christening a child. But in bestowing a title on a play you must pick one that is thoroughly justified by the keynote idea of the piece itself. The original title chosen for 'The Road to Happiness' by its author, was, to confess a secret, 'from the Ground Up.'"

JULIAN ELTINGE STARS IN PLAY AT COLONIAL

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Julian Eltinge has come back to Boston in a new play, "The Crinoline Girl," and is receiving at the Colonial Theatre every evening and the usual matinees.

Upon the program the name of Eltinge is printed in letters three times as big as the play. That is the proper proportion. Eltinge is a very unusual genius and the play is just something he does himself, around it.

Male hoopers lasts longer than female impersonators, and Eltinge, after ten or a dozen years of impersonations, makes a fresher and more charming girl than many of the actresses who are still on the boards and wears their bows about the same time that he did.

He has grown more experienced in woman's wiles, even during the last two years that he has been away, and his art is a more finished and polished article than it used to be. When a man can create the atmosphere of femininity so completely, and dissipate it by a sudden twist of his shoulders in his low-necked gown, so that his true sex is as plain as day, he must be admitted to the ranks of great artists.

Eltinge can wear gowns with the distinction of a Paris dressmaker's model, and when he dons evening clothes all suggestion of effeminacy vanishes completely. He is a manly man and a womanly woman, and a comedian of parts in either role.

The play gives him a chance to wear about six toilettes which are daring and dashing, the last word from Paris before the dressmakers went to war.

He also sings half a dozen songs during the evening, but he sings in a mild and polite baritone that is not becoming to his costumes, and which hasn't much to do with his success on the stage.

The play is a weird thing, a sort of burlesque melodrama. It is all about some mysterious thieves who are supposed to be headed by a girl in a crinoline skirt, who appears to fancy dress balls. Eltinge assumes the crinoline to search for the thieves, wins a reward of $5,000 and the hand of the girl he loves. Various people are chasing one another around the stage, a la George Cohan during the three acts of the play and the audience is getting satisfied for some time as to the identity of the crooks. Eltinge, in a variety of female disguises, is nearly always upon the stage. Of course everything ends happily.

Braves Will Give 'Rabbit' Big Sendoff Following Wedding

"Rabbit" Maranville, baseball thespian actor and the diminutive shortstop of the champion Braves, will marry Miss Elizabeth Shea of his home town, Springfield, on November 28.

The ceremony and reception, the couple will leave for the Georgia plantation of "Bear" Stallings, where they will remain until the start of the Spring training trip.

Since the close of the championship series Maranville has been traveling on a vaudeville circuit, making his debut in this city and arranging his contract as he would be at home for Thanksgiving and he married the following Saturday.

Teammates of Maranville are planning a trip to Springfield and a rousing sendoff will be given the couple.

The company is not remarkable for good acting. Edward Garvie, as a fat and frivolous friend of Eltinge, stands out pleasantly, and Walter Horton as a very stupid and foppish sort of detective, makes a good impression.

MAMMA, DADDY AND CHILDREN ALL LOVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Harmless "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels.

A delicious cure for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the name of it (the genuine) is a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation, poison, waste matter, undigested food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Ease and don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a purge. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative can not cause injury. Even a delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in telling it from the imitations, so ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" and look for the name "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch it.

These coats were made to our own specifications from the famous Carr's 32-ounce Treble-Milled West-of-England Meltons (imported) in Oxfords, Blacks, Blues and Cambridge Grays.

They are hand tailored all the way through in the finest possible manner, and are lined throughout with the best of heavy, pure dye, solid silk lining costing $2 per single-width yard at wholesale.

These coats have an opening at the bottom through which you can see the back side of the fabric and the back side of the lining—a small detail, but of the greatest importance nevertheless.

The reduced tariff has made this low price possible, and, as might be expected, this Live Store is the first to give the public the benefit of the new schedule.

You can pay $40, or even $50, for a Carr's Melton Overcoat if you like, but you can't possibly get a better one than we will sell you at Twenty Dollars.

JEANETTE AND JOHNSON
BATTLE TO A DRAW IN
12-ROUND BOUT AT ATLAS

JEANETTE GETS DRAW IN BOUT WITH JOHNSON

By RINGSIDE.

Joe Jeanette, the lanky, dusky heavyweight of New York, Hoboken and several other places and Battling Jim Johnson, somewhat sunkier and duskier, and little Peter Heley, the referee, battled, swatted, danced and leaptrogged throughout twelve rounds at the Arena ring last evening and at the finish two black arms and two white ones were lifted aloft showing the grand gathering of jeans that everything was even stephen.

The bout was a bummer in spots and it was well spotted at that, and had it not been for the third man in the ring who insisted on breaking up the pair the battle would no have gone the limit as Johnson would surely have caved in his colored rival's ribs.

With all due respect to the referee, the purse should have been split three ways as he did as much real work as did the boxers and should have squared off at least once in every round as it to take a smash at him.

NEW LINE OF ATTACK.

Johnson's style of milling was somewhat new to the fans and in spite of their puzzling over it it must have puzzled Jeanette also. The Hatting one had a side attack in which he would use a sort of a head hold punch, followed by a hip lock and this done would pound Jeanette on the ribs with a force that would put Hugh Nawn's electric sledge to shame.

The Hoboken negro was right there, however, and when reared by the little referee, would pull right into the same old position after landing a few smart ones in Johnson's face or midsection.

Twice during the bout, Jeanette did a Brodie trying to display a little footwork and once while doing a little spirit Johnson tried to beat him to the ropes and legged right on his neck. He could have won the bout right there but he took another leap and the round ended.

NOT FULL OF FUN.

The bout, taken from all angles, was interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed by the fans.

In addition to the main bout the fans were introduced to an old Boston favorite, Announcer Benny Bentley. Sandy Ferguson, and after a little talking on the part of each Benny took part in getting into the ring, he is a clever little fellow. He is under the management of Eddie Mack, who says Sandy is open for engagements.

The semi-final bout between Walter Butler, Lynn welter, and Jimmy Brady, Lawrence welter, ended in the sixth round.

Referee Moore disqualified Byers for fouling after he had been warned several times for the same foul.

In the opening bout Young McKay, Iona won in three rounds over Johnny Joyce. The bout between Willie Green and Johnny Murphy was called a draw.

New Plays Tried out by Yale Eleven for Princeton Battle

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 11.—Yale's football team played in the best form it has so far exhibited in the game in secret practice against the strong scrub eleven.

In succession minutes of actual scrimmaging the varsity scored four touchdowns. It was the first time that the varsity tried several entirely new open formations with which to meet Johnny Poe's attack. Nothing against the rush line, which showed much improvement.

It is believed that Coach Hickey has developed the best following line up against Princeton:

Princeton Player Signed by Giants

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—In addition to its drafted players, Secretary Foster of the New York National League Club has announced that the club had secured three other young players.

Robert Reed, for several years star third baseman of Princeton, has signed a New York contract, and Manager McGraw has also signed Homer Glass, full-blooded Indian pitcher from Oklahoma.

Boston Cueist Wins.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Albert Cutler of Boston defeated Jake Shaffer, 1,200 to 1,000, in Billiard Players' League match here. Averages and high runs: Cutler, 11.3-27; 65; Schaefer, 10 6-26; 30.

BIG FEDERAL LEAGUE HEADS FORCE PEACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Baseball peace is in sight according to reliable information today. It involves the passing of the Federal League and change of ownership in several big league teams. Some details yet remain to be worked out, but peace is not far away.

Taken in connection with Garry Herrmann's statement in Omaha that peace was on the way, today's information apparently presages the near ending of the baseball war.

Here are the conditions: The Federal League will pass out of existence. The Chicago Cubs will be purchased by Charles Weeghman, at present owner of the Chicleds. The new owners will be given the best chances are that Joe Tinker will remain as manager.

The Federal League teams in other cities save in Pittsburgh where there are conflicting arrangements with the organized baseball clubs, Pittsburgh will be placed in the International League and this clears the way for the Pirates will play continuous baseball.

The class of the American association and the International League will be raised. The idea now is to turn over the players in the Federal League to organized baseball where they will be placed in the game.

This would hold good in Chicago, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Buffalo, Baltimore, St. Louis, and Brooklyn. The Wards of Brooklyn will purchase the New York Highlanders despite their denials to the contrary.

Otto Stifel, of the St. Louis Federals will purchase the Cardinals of the National League.

This is what was tentatively agreed upon at the meeting in Chicago between Garry Herrmann, of organized baseball, and Charles Weeghman and Harry Sinclair, of Brooklyn, representing the third leaguers.

College Football

ITHACA, Nov. 11.—Cornell had another one of Michigan's fumbles to cash in on and scored a touchdown in the first period. Cornell got a chance to play for a touchdown in the second period. The ball was carried by the aggressive defensive Michigan line to the two yard mark. Then the big team couldn't gain. Cornell was penalized for offside play and Michigan broke his hands in the Purple line. Cornell held for downs and Michigan kicked out of danger. Kinnert broke up Cornell's forward pass.

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 11.—The Carlisle Indians have been strengthened by the addition of the veteran Hudson, who has been with the Athletics and Cleveland Americans. Hudson is a Cherokee Indian, and has played baseball, and Charles Weeghman and Harry Sinclair, of Brooklyn, representing the third leaguers.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 11.—Another day of hard work of football practice for the Williams varsity eleven. Coach Daly has planned for the final week before the Wesleyan game. Daly is devoting the most attention to the backfield. Lockwood, who has been a substitute at quarterback, Wilson, left halfback, Ainsworth, right halfback, Knowles, Fullback, Leffler.

AMHERST, Nov. 11.—Coach Riley is putting on the finishing touches for the last game of the season. Saturday's game with Tufts is looked upon as the final word as to the success of football this season. He is driving the men harder than at any previous time, attempting a second edition of the 1916 team. Captain Goodrich, who has been a substitute at left tackle in place of Wardell. The new combination has improved greatly. Amherst are working well and the signal drill was fine.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 11.—Boston followers in the settlement of the Michigan team in the line tomorrow at Ferry Field. The showing will start at right half against Cornell. Maulbetsch, the Detroit boy who showed with Maulbetsch in the Penn game and can break through the scrub line for a big gain at any time, while Hammes turned into a down, and later scored a touchdown himself. Ziegler had taken the ball for a 40-yard run on the drill for the first time. Coach Yost's plays which bothered the varsity Monday by puzzling some yesterday, as the coaches analyzed the Illinois offense at length last night.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 11.—As the season is now about that Rutgers will have to play three games within a week in standing up to football season, the coaching staff is busy making arrangements to alleviate the burden. Sanford is coming to end in the game against Stevens, thus outlining only four regulars. All others will be saved for New York University on Thanksgiving Day and for the probable contest with Washington & Jefferson the following Saturday.

CHASING THE PIGSKIN

IN football a team gets a whack at the other fellow once, and only once, a year. There are no series as there are in baseball. It is do or die at one fell swoop.

THE progress of a team is judged once a week and the abilities of a team are sized up as a result of the weekly gridiron battles.

PRINCETON meets Harvard once a year in the last battle of these two universities Harvard defeated Princeton 20 to 0, and 20 to 0 tells pretty nearly the relative merits of the two teams as last Saturday's game was played.

HINKEY seems to have risked all on the lateral plays this year. That they will gain against any team has been proven in every game Yale has played this year. That they can also be stopped was proved by Washington and Jefferson.

OF course, Haughton had the Washington and Jefferson-Yale game covered by his scouts. He has had minute diagrams of the plays and elaborate explanations of how Wash.-Jeff. stopped them.

IF Washington and Jefferson can stop them it goes without saying that Harvard can stop them too, and probably Harvard will be able to stop them better than W. and J. did.

BUT Harvard cannot afford to take too many liberties with them. She cannot send her entire team down to Princeton to see Yale play next Saturday and rely on subs to defeat the Providence boys.

HARVARD must be sure of her defense against Brown, for the Rhode Islanders have many formations with two or three plays from each. And Brown possesses a kicker in Gordon, who can outpunt any man on the Crimson squad. Gordon is said to be able to make seventy yards with the wind in his favor.

BROWN is also strong at hurling the forward pass. In short, Coach Robinson, from his little book of Brown plays, is able this year, as he has in years gone by, to present a bewildering variety of plays and the opponent has to be on his toes all the time to outwit the Providence boys.

BARRING the ordinary plays that every well-drilled team is supposed to have as a matter of course, and which every opponent is supposed to know how to meet, the thing that Coach Haughton must evolve is a plan of defense that will break up Yale's lateral plays. These plays gain ground quickly if properly made, although there is a good deal of risk to them.

A TEST of this kind which, of course, is impossible, would however very clearly establish the relative merits of the two teams—something that cannot be well done where only one game is played.

AS things are a team has to score or fall on the result of one game. That one game may be full of fumbles, bad kicking, poor passing, mistakes in signals, and so on. But they probably would not occur in two or three or four games.

BUT it is foolish to talk about it. It can't be did.

IT is good betting that Coach Haughton is losing little or no sleep over the game with Brown next Saturday, and it also is good betting that the whole of the secret practice at the Stadium in the next ten days will be taken up in working out plans to circumvent Yale.

Star Tufts Players Out of Bowdoin Game

Tufts football squad presented a battered up appearance on the Oval for the first session of practice since the Dartmouth game last Saturday.

Tufts will go into the game with Bowdoin this week with a patched-up lineup. Tobin and O'Donnell, the shortstop will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Schlotterbeck, the guard, may not play again this year, for he is in very poor shape.

11,500 Army Seats for Gridiron Battle

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Lieutenant Charles B. Meyer, secretary and treasurer of the army athletic council, has started the mailing of the army's share of the tickets for the Army and Navy football game to be played in Philadelphia, November 29.

The army's share of 11,500 seats will be mailed under registered envelopes before the end of the week.

GAFFNEY SAYS BRAVES' PARK IS NOT SOLD

President James E. Gaffney of the Braves arrived in Boston today on top of the report that the old National League grounds at Walpole street and Columbus avenue had been sold.

Mr. Gaffney said there was nothing in the report.

The owner of the Braves took occasion to explain the matter of training quarters for next Spring about which there have been conflicting reports.

"The Macon City Council has passed a resolution granting the Boston Club the use of the Macon grounds for next Spring," said Mr. Gaffney, "but the question is not settled by any means. There are other things to be considered besides playing grounds.

"If these things can be properly adjusted the Braves will train at Macon next Spring; if they cannot be adjusted the Braves will train elsewhere.

"The report that we might train at Hot Springs, Ark., arose from the fact that one of the hotels at Hot Springs wired me saying Hot Springs would be welcome the world's champions there and inviting us to come. I wired back asking their terms and what ground they could furnish.

"The rate they made is very reasonable, much less than we paid at Macon, and one of the best hotels of Hot Springs made the offer.

"I am handling the matter myself this season, but as I said before, if everything can be made satisfactory we will go to Macon, as I know Stallings would prefer it. The question has not yet been settled, however."

Regarding the report of the sale of the South End ball grounds Mr. Gaffney said:

"We have not sold the grounds and we have no offer to sell. Just about the time of the World's Series a firm looked the grounds over with a view of establishing a plant there, but the matter was dropped sometime ago as far as I know.

"There is absolutely nothing new in regard to new grounds for the Braves. If we ever get new grounds I will let the public of Boston know about it the moment a deal is completed."

Mr. Gaffney said that important baseball news is expected to develop as result of conferences being held by Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission, and Giles Weeghman, owner of the Chicago Federal League Club, which is end in settling the baseball war. But the 'Feds' are beaten," declared Mr. Gaffney, "and I am in favor of going ahead as we did last season. The point at which the negotiators are pitched, as I understand it, is that some of the 'Fed' magnates want everybody taken care of, including players that broke their lawful and more lcontracts. I do not know it can be done."

D LEAGUE LEADER O GET CHICAGO CUBS SAYS BAN JOHNSON

MAHA, Neb., Nov. 11.—sident Ban Johnson of the erican League, who has just rived here with Governor ner of Pennsylvania, stated ay that Charles Weeghman the Federals of Chicago had en given an option on the icago National League team id that the option had been tended for one week, pending otiations.

Johnson said that he would turn to Chicago where he expected to complete the details the deal with Weeghman.

McMahon Latest Star Knocked Out of Langford League

By H. M. WALKER.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11.—Heavies may come and heavies may go, but Sam Langford just naturally blooms forever.

Tom McMahon is the latest to be knocked out of the Langford league and there remains nothing for the Little giant but to join the Feds.

Sam stopped his man in the sixth round. Beaten ounce by ounce, Tom toppled to the floor when struck with a short left to the chin.

He took the full count of nine and came up with one despairing rush at his grinning tormentor, but before Langford could administer more punishment, a kindly-faced officer pulled himself through the ropes of the old Vernon rink and stopped the show.

Hopkins Made Captain.

ANDOVER, Nov. 11.—Irving G. Hopkins of New York City has been elected captain of the Phillips Andover Academy cross-country team. The squad includes Captain Hopkins, Norris, N. E. Green, Lowes, McCarten, Small, Crosby, Murdock, Dines, Snow, Warner, Montgomery.

Big Shakeup Due in Syracuse Team

SYRACUSE, Nov. 11.—As a result of the showing of the Syracuse University football team in their game with Rutgers, Saturday, changes are promised by Head Field Coach Frank J. O'Neill.

Shifts are expected when the team lines up in a scrimmage today.

As the team rests now, hardly a man is sure of a berth, except, perhaps, Ross, end. Wilkinson in the backfield. Captain Shufelt even may be shifted from end to centre, where, it is thought, his sturdy passing will remedy the offside evil developed Saturday.

BRICKLEY BACK ON JOB WITH HIS MIGHTY RIGHT

By "AL."

With Captain Charlie Brickley at last kicking with that mighty right foot and all the regulars ready for any kind of a scrimmage that comes along, affairs in the final tuning up of the Harvard football team are looming along in splendid fashion.

All the cripples who are likely to get in against Yale have recovered, and the squad is in perfect trim for the ultimate planing off for the big contest of the year.

The Harvard captain showed that his layoff and the removal of his appendix had not interfered in the least with his skill as a drop kicker. He batted, as you might say, for just about a thousand in the drop kicking line yesterday, and several of his boots were long distance shots at that.

It looks more and more every day as if the greatest football player of them all was going to show somewhere in that Yale game. He feels fit, acts fit and looks fit. Daily now he runs about the field and is thriving on the work. While, of course, there's no probability of his playing more than a few minutes against Yale, it would surprise no one to have the doctor's ban lifted any of these days.

WINNING SPIRIT EVIDENT.

This fact among other things helped give birth to a wonderful spirit of optimism in the ranks of the Crimson and the players are going about their work with a vim and dash that was noticeable by its absence a short time back, when every team that came along was giving Harvard a touch battle.

A light scrimmage will be principal part of the program today, with the regulars going in for short spells, but the subs doing most of the hard work.

A long blackboard talk in the jock or building will precede the field operations. In fact, until the season ends the daily black and white instructions will be the big part of each day's football curriculum.

All the plays that will be used in case of emergency against the Elis have been given to the squad and from now on they will be drummed into the players day in and day out so that there will be no chance of slip-up when the danger signal is flung down there in the new Yale bowl a week and a half or so from the present time.

The Brown game is expected to be nothing more than an easy practice stunt and most of the coaches and several of the Harvard players will journey down to Princeton to watch their rivals of the window tray have it out with the Tigers Saturday.

SUBS AGAINST BROWN.

The team that will face Brown will be composed mostly of the first string substitutes, the players who will have to get into the Yale battle in case any of the regulars go under.

The scrimmage today and another tomorrow will mark practically the last actual playing practice of the season. Friday will be devoted only to signals, while the team will go to Connecticut early next week and have only light workouts until the Yale game.

The Stadium these days is overrun with coaches, all something in the line of specialists, and every player and good sub has a personal instructor, who is busily engaged in hammering the fine points of this or that particular part into said player or good sub.

That Harvard expects the field goal and punting to play a big part in the game is evident by the manner in which every Tom, Dick and Harry on the squad is being kept at the kicking game. While the actual kicking will fall to the lot of Mahan, Hardwick and Francke, there have been developed at Cambridge at least a half dozen booting experts, who are very close up to the big boys in the various fine arts that go to make kicking.

ALL REGULARS OUT.

All the regulars got into the practice yesterday excepting Coolidge and Hardwick, the wing guardians, who were granted a rest. Both, however, will be back on the job this afternoon.

Yesterday's work, which was not over strenuous, consisted mostly of defensive practice for the varsity. With the scrubs using the Yale formations, as given them by Reggie Brown, who did scout duty on the trial of the Elis for several weeks. Consequently he is best fitted of any of the Harvard coaches to instruct the squad as to just what it will be up against.

The first string players found the supposed Yale method of attack an easy matter to pile up, though, of course, the Crimson second team is rather an obsolete sort of a Yale team at the best.

The same Yale formations will be used by the seconds in all the scrimmage work for the rest of the season.

CHAUNCY AND CARRUTH TEAMS MEET TONIGHT

CHAUNCY Will be pitted against one of its strongest rivals in the City League tonight, when it tackles the Carruth team on the Hanover street alleys. The match should be productive of some excellent rolling, as these two teams hold the best pinfalls, and, doubly so, because Carruth may be depended upon to make its best stand at home.

While the Chauncy-Carruth contest is looked upon as the feature match this evening, the other two should prove equally as attractive. The Boylston team, with Warren Brown, the present holder of the highest individual average in the big league, will go to Casino, while the fast moving Adams Square quintet will stack its wares against the rejuvenated Murray team.

NO matter what the outcome of this evening's rolloff may be, Chauncy cannot be ousted from first place, as it has a lead of five points over Boylston, the runner-up.

It will be interesting to await the result of the individual battle between Poehler and Brown tonight, although on different alleys. Poehler is striving to get back into the leadership, which he lost last week after one of the worst nights in regular matches he has ever experienced.

Those who watched Brown closely say that he is rolling his best game this season. A third man, Archie Welsh, is also rolling along smoothly and will bear watching, as he is but a few pins back of Brown and Poehler.

IT now seems certain that Paul Poehler will meet Glen Riddell, the champion boltiepin bowler of New York city. The match will be rolled on the most suitable local alley some time around Thanksgiving Day and will combine five styles of pin, candle, duck and bottle. Five strings will be rolled at each kind of pin. The best eight out of fifteen strings will decide the winner. Poehler has approved of the match.

Riddell will not come here until around the 20th of this month, but his father will take care of arrangements, which will probably be completed within a few days.

HERE is a string rolled by a Mr. Jones on the Chauncy alleys worthy of your consideration: 17 spare, 18 spare, 20 spare, 29 strike, 20 strike, 19 spare, 19 spare, 9, 7, 16 spare. Total—170. On the string preceding this record-breaker Jones toppled the maples for 124, and two or three strings before that got a single of 124.

* * *

JACK TAYLOR of the Chauncy team and "Buck" Dervin of Lynn will clash in a 20-string match next week. The first ten strings will be rolled on Monday evening and the second decade on Tuesday evening. The battle probably will take place at the Noddis and Winthrop Beach alleys.

* * *

MAUGUS, the leader, will meet North Gate, the runner-up, in the Newton boltiepin series tonight. The game will be rolled on the alleys of the latter club and should bring out the largest attendance of the season. Maugus is leading North Gate by five points.

* * *

THERE is bound to be some excite-ment this evening in connection with the weekly rolloff of the Somerville City League, as five teams will go into the battle practically tied for first place. George McConville's team is the real leader, having a point margin on the Winter Hill, Hall Squares, Hobbs Specials and Bowlaway, Jrs., all of whom are tied for second place.

* * *

CLARENDON, Central, Newtowne, Melrose, Towanda and Medford will roll their first games in the Mystic Valley League tonight. The other two teams got into swing Monday evening.

* * *

COMING right on top of the break-ing up of the triple tie in the K. of C. League in the match this evening between the two leaders, Mt. Benedict and Arlington First. This contest is apt to put one or the other team out of the leading position, as the other quintets, Santa Maria and Pere Marquette, are within hailing distance of the upper berth.

* * *

THE Pullman League, consisting of three B. & A. R. R. teams and three Pullman quintets, now makes a weekly stop at Littlefield's alleys. The boys say that just as soon as they get up a little more steam they will make the speed of the Twentieth Century Club look sick.

TIGERS IN ROW OVER FOOTBALL COACHING PLAN

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 11—Stirred by the enthusiasm shown by the 2,000 students who met the defeated team, the Princeton squad entered upon the week of practice before the Yale game with a great show of ginger.

There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction with the system of coaching, which fails to turn out a winning team when the material at hand is excellent.

Recognizing the justice of this feeling, Coach Fenfield has taken it upon himself to order graduate football headers to keep strictly to the sidelines, leaving him and the team to work out their own salvation in the little remaining time.

As the practice prior to the Yale game is limited, he will be converted entirely to attempting to secure some sort of team play which can show more growth than was evident last Saturday.

Both Captain Billin and Glick were absent from the scrimmage, but the former took part in the signal drill. The coaches gave out the information that Glick would not be used in any of the scrimmages this week, but that they hoped to be able to use him in the Yale game. His loss to the Tigers is a serious one.

Smiley and Chakas Draw at Gloucester

GLOUCESTER, Nov. 11—The tenround bout at the Gloucester Social and Athletic Club between Jack Smiley of the Navy and Young Chakas of Manchester, N. H., was considered a draw by most of the fans. Young Aronson, who was billed to take six rounds with Tommy Flanagan, failed to show up, and Tommy Tuttle of Lynn and Oscar Lloyd of Salem substituted.

Martin was knocked down in the second, but came back strong from that time to the end.

Jean Rabet of Salem knocked out Jack Collins of Beverly in the preliminary.

Exeter to Adopt New Flag for Red

EXETER, N. H., Nov. 11—No red flag will be carried at the football game Saturday at Andover, in accordance with the Massachusetts laws, so the students will have to resort to the white or gray banners with the "E."

A long workout in secret, consisting of a half-hour signal drill and a hard scrimmage, was the program for the Exeter eleven in preparation for the game.

Many Home Games for Exeter Seven

EXETER, N. H., Nov. 11—The Phillipps Exeter hockey schedule has been announced by Manager M. W. Wright: January 16, Englis High School at Exeter; 23, Melrose High School at Exeter; 27, Hudson High School at Exeter; 30, Harvard freshmen at Cambridge.

February 3, High and Latin School at Exeter; 6, Arlington High School at Exeter; 12, Dartmouth freshmen at Exeter; 13-20, dates reserved for Andover, to be played at Exeter or Andover, as the Interscholastic Committee may decide; 24, Dean Academy at Exeter; 27, Lowell Textile School at Exeter.

President to Attend Army-Navy Game

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Wilson has received an invitation to attend the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia, November 28, and may accept. Following out the precedent set by other Presidents, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, President Wilson witnessed the game last year.

Everett to Play Stamford in Post-Season Game December 5

The Everett High School football team has accepted the Stamford High challenge and will meet the Connecticut schoolboys on December 5 at Everett, provided the members of the local team are willing to play another post-season game in addition to the one set for November 28 with Oak Park High School.

Faculty Manager Everett Marks, Headmaster Bucknam and Coach Cleo O'Donnell of Everett High held a conference with the Stamford position and it was decided to play Stamford high on two dates.

The Everett authorities place the matter before the football players today and if they wish to meet the Stamford team the game will surely be played.

Stamford High has made a wonderful record in the last three years, having won all of its games. This Fall it has won eight games, which includes victories over strong teams.

According to Hartford newspapers Hartford High, by winning over New Britain High last Friday, is State champion, but Stamford High has beaten their team by 14 to 0.

Mr. Marks of Everett High has received the record of Stamford High, which states that the latter team has defeated Greenwich, Hartford, Bridgeport, Torrington (by forfeit), Stamford High, Westerly, Providence, Peekskill Military Academy (2), Clinton High and Dickinson High.

Everett Wanderers After New Honors

The Wanderers at Everett are in the field again this year with another team which while not quite as strong as last year's team will make it very interesting for its opponents.

The team is not quite as heavy as last year's aggregation, weighing but 120 pounds, and we challenge any team averaging said weight in New England.

We will travel anywhere in New England for half expenses and outside of New England for full expenses or a guarantee. For games address H. H. Long, manager, 41 Babcock street, Everett.

Harvard-Yale Game of Coast Saturday

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 11.—The annual rugby football game between Leland Stanford University and the University of California will be played at Berkeley next Saturday afternoon.

This is the Harvard-Yale game of the Pacific coast and it is expected that 25,000 people, representing the equality of the grounds, will witness the battle.

Boston Boys to Run on Dartmouth Team

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 11.—Two graduate Boston boys will run with the Dartmouth hill-and-dalers in the New England intercollegiate cross country at Boston Saturday. C. H. Thompson, the old Hyde Park star, and Ken Tucker of Newton High, are both expected to make a creditable showing.

C. E. C. Five After Games.

The fast C. E. C. basketball team has reorganized for the coming year. The team is composed of former members of the Bunker Hill Boys team of two years ago. The team is out to meet the fastest 115-pound fives in the State. They were claimants for the championship last year, having finished the season with 22 victories and 3 defeats. Teams desiring games write to Manager Thomas J. Reynolds, No. 34 Mystic street, Charlestown.

Welsh to Meet Duffy.

BUFFALO, Nov. 11—Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion, and Jimmy Duffy have been matched for a ten-round bout here November 19. They have agreed to weigh 137 pounds, ringside.

Medford High Star to Enter Bridgton

George McCarthy, the former Medford High School football star, leaves for Bridgton, Me., where he completes to enter Bridgton Academy. The Medford boy will probably not be eligible for football this season, but will be of great help to the academy's hockey team.

Dinner to Meehan.

The Brookline Swimming Club tenders a dinner tonight in honor of George E. Meehan, who won the Battery to Sandy Hook race last year.

Three B. C. Stars on Crippled List for Holy Cross Game

With three players on the injured list, the chances of defeating Holy Cross at Worcester next Saturday do not seem so bright today, although the students are confident.

Riley, the captain and star halfback, has a fractured shoulder. Duffy, the other halfback, has a poisoned foot, and McInnis, who starred last Saturday against St. Anselm's, has a wrenched knee.

The game will be the second of the four contests which will, it was given out by the Catholic College championship.

The game will be the offensive event of the final eleven's schedule, and Coach Mahoney is using every effort to have a winning combination on the field.

The local students expect that Holy Cross will defeat Fordham, but the latter's game with the little contest with the Fordham University eleven, to be fought out in Boston on Thanksgiving Day.

Henry Beitz Killed.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 11.—Henry Beitz, at one time a member of the famous Baltimore Orioles baseball team, was killed here by an automobile. Beitz began playing professional baseball in Sacramento in 1890, and a few years later went to the big league with the Baltimore team.

The muff and neck piece are of tete de negre velvet bound with satin and trimmed with long tassels.

THERE is a regal air to this calling costume of cerulean blue Ottoman silk. The black Ottoman silk underskirt shows only from the sides, as the front and back panel are of the blue silk. In the back a new effect is obtained by folding the silk back to form two flapping lapels, with the selvedge left as a finish.

Losing Your Grip

"It is easy enough to be pleasant when life flows on like a song—

But the man worth while is the man who can smile when everything goes dead wrong."

"UP to four years ago I was possessed of a happy, optimistic nature," writes L. A. H. "I was living with my parents in a fine home, being greatly indulged, care-free and, with no responsibilities. I then came to the city to fill a position to which I had been called. I have been compelled to suffer hardships and humiliations which have been almost unbearable, and which have caused my whole life and nature to change. Sickness resulted in loss of position, and I have had to be contented with pegging along in uneffective places at a minor salary while I am confident that with an even chance I could qualify for positions of greater prestige than heretofore held. My friends take other people's sorrows as a matter of course. No reading that I do cheers me. It is only for the sake of my aged parents that I have not given up hope. I feel down and out at twenty-four.

When the boy who lives at home and is "greatly indulged, care-free and with no responsibilities" comes to any great crisp he has two battles to fight. One is for place in the maelstrom of city life. The other is to force himself to keep his grit and go on fighting.

Keeping your grit and keeping your grip are one and the same thing, L. A. H.

It is easy enough to be cheerful when you are at home being petted and indulged and generally unfitted for the fight of life.

No reading that you can do will help you, nothing that a friend or adviser says will stay you, and no aid that I attempt to offer will be of use—unless you make up your mind that the fight per se is worth waging.

The point is not whether you are plugging along in places where you cannot make your ability tell. The point is not that if chance were kind enough to throw something worth while your way you could prove your self-sufficiency. The real point is that is going to decide whether you are to be a success or a failure is just this: Are you capable of taking joy in your work whatever it is? Are you strong enough to hope on in the face of disappointment after disappointment? Are you sufficiently imaginative and keen to find opportunity in what to another man might seem ordinary routine work?

At twenty-four no man goes "down and out" unless he deliberately loosens his grip on the steering wheel of his own life. No failure in youth or middle life—no loss of opportunity—no pegging along at second rate work is in any way final. Anything may be coming your way today or tomorrow. All you need to do is to be ready when it does come. Now don't think that a platitude. Almost every man who fails is directly responsible for his own failure.

Success is in the blood, it has been said. This is very true. You can use every obstacle, every humiliation, every disappointment to bring about your final success if you use each failure and wring it dry of the knowledge of humanity it gives, and strip it of the information about your own shortcomings is carries, and use it to probe and plumb your own weaknesses.

Whether you succeed or fail in life is largely a matter of how long you can manage to keep your grip—and your head. If you can think sanely and assure yourself that no series of misfortunes is an ironclad, unbreakable thing that cannot at any moment be switched off into a series of successes, of course, no failure can daunt you. Now since all things in life are temporary, why not regard the day's unhappiness this way: This is for today only; tomorrow I may be on the crest of a wave of success, anything may be waiting for me "just around the corner." I will keep a firm grip on the steering wheel of my own life, and in the end I will master my fate because I have not lost my grip and let temporary misfortune master me and steer me to destruction and despair.

"SEVEN TIMES THOU SHALT BE MARRIED," SAID THE FORTUNE TELLER.

An Honest Man

Out in the young countries of the world they have a painful way of going out of business.

Sandy Macfarlane and Patrick Hoolan were traveling together in one of these "outposts of Empire," and at one stage of their wild career took a passage in an old-fashioned coach.

"Just like the good old times," said Sandy, settling down in his corner for the night.

Patrick said nothing. He was already asleep.

The coach rumbled on peacefully, when suddenly the dreamers were awakened by cries from the driver. Looking out of the window, Sandy's face came in direct contact with the unsympathetic eye of a highwayman and the muzzle of a long revolver. Sandy sat down again suddenly.

"Hands up!" exclaimed the husky robber.

But his order was quite unnecessary, as all the travelers had their hands well above their heads, with the exception of Sandy, who was already unloading his pockets.

"Pat," whispered he, pressing some money into his friend's pocket, "here's that gold piece I borrowed yesterday!"

"HOW do you know he did?"

"Well, what's become of her?" Sir Ralph thought rapidly. He was an unerring judge of character, and he knew that Steele would never reveal the identity of that nursemaid. "Ask him," he challenged her daringly. "Ask him what he did with her—the Hastings girl! But what's the use? Of course he will lie—any man would."

"Yes, that's quite true," assented Jenny eagerly. "All men are liars, especially about women, and if we deceive them—then oh, my hat!"

Gaveston saw his advantage and pressed it home. "Quite so," he said, with a cynical smile, "and that's where you would find an advantage in accepting me. You wouldn't shock me. I've had my fling, and I'm not the man to resent you having had yours." Jenny looked up at him quickly. "I don't know if you have entertained the idea of marrying this virtuous plebeian, but if you did, you must expect him to read you homilies every day on the domestic virtues and the worth of true womanhood. Besides, he's after your money."

"You are a woman," Jenny taunted him. The Lancashire mill girl was apparent in her just then.

"My dear girl," said the baronet, folding his arms on the table and looking at her, "if it was only money that I was after, I could always find some rich woman fool enough to buy the title of Lady Gaveston. If you rate your charms so low as to think it's only your money that I care for, then, comparing me with Steele, you must admit that I am able to offer you that little—a little—in exchange. You would make a fine Lady Gaveston!" he concluded, with a simulated burst of admiration. He could see that she relished the description.

She stood silent, looking into the darkness. "Well, she said, with a nervous laugh, "we've had a very interesting conversation, haven't we? Mind you, I'm not going to accept what you say about Captain Steele without questioning him. So you object to my mentioning the source of my information?"

Sir Ralph was by no means a coward, but drink, irregular living, and perhaps an uneasy conscience had played havoc with nerve and muscle alike. They were in Paris, where a man can be called to account with his life for an attack on another's honor. He went a shade paler as he replied: "I leave that to your discretion. You must, however, remember that what I told you I had in confidence from another man, whose name, of course, I could not betray."

"I see. It's awkward about Mrs. Varney, for I like her, and I can't risk saying too much for fear of reaching her husband's ears. Well, as to your proposal—"

"Yes?" The baronet sprang to his feet and fixed his eyes on her.

"Well, I suppose I may consider the offer open for another week or two?"

"The door of my heart remains open to you always," said Sir Ralph, bowing low.

Vexed at the moment of his capture in the vestibule of Varney's hotel by Mrs. Melas, Victor returned to his own hotel that night grateful for the distraction of her companionship. He had been profoundly depressed by the tone of Leslie's letter which Varney had shown him. It was plain to him that she was passing through some painful mental crisis, and it was impossible not to connect that with one or other of the events of the recent voyage.

Someone tapped at the door. He was wanted on the telephone. As soon as he put the receiver to his ear he recognized Jenny's voice.

"Hullo! Is that Captain Steele?"

"I'm Steele. You're Jenny, I think. . . . Yes, I'll come round at once. I was coming to say good-bye. I leave by the midday train."

He found Mrs. Melas in her private sitting room. Storm signals were out; her bright eyes sparkled dangerously, as he spoke of government business.

"Oh, the government!" Jenny stamped her feet. "I don't see why government business should interfere the very moment I come to Paris. It's too bad of you, Vicky, to go away like this."

It cuts me to the heart, Jenny, my own," returned Victor in the tone of burlesque in which he generally spoke to Mrs. Melas, "but when duty calls—"

"Bother you and your duty!" burst out his companion angrily. "There's a woman in the case; that's why you're going to London—to meet her."

She began to pace the room breathing hard. He watched her uneasily.

"I've heard something," she said, silencing him with uplifted finger, "through all sorts of indirect channels." She stopped and faced him. "It's about that girl at Hastings—ah! you do remember."

"Tell me first," she hissed, clenching her upraised hands, "if you were in love with the girl—she who was—what became of her?"

He surveyed her contemptuously. He felt sure of his ground now. "My dear Jenny, I will satisfy your very important curiosity on two conditions. The first is that you will tell me where you heard all this and why I am catechised in this manner?"

Their eyes met. "You know very well why I catechise you," she said. "You know without my telling you how I feel toward you—how I have always felt. I'm not going to tell you over again."

He was glad of the diversion the confession afforded him, painful though it would have been and frequently unwelcome at any other time.

"After all, why should I care," she said mockingly, looking him full in the face, "if dear Mrs. Varney doesn't—"

He was thrown off his guard.

"Mrs. Varney!" he gasped hoarsely. He seized her by the wrists. "Confound it! What do you know?"

She wrenched herself away and faced him erect and rigid. "I know everything!" she screamed; "I saw it all on the boat. Pretending to flirt with me in order to throw dust in that fool Varney's eyes! She's in Scotland, he tells me, very quiet. Pining for you, no doubt! Well, she shan't have you. You belong to me, you, and I'll tell Leslie Varney that to her face."

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch the cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. You get a pint—a family supply—of effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, Winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation, or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

WOMEN SHAVE UNKNOWINGLY

When they are unwise enough to use so-called hair removers that merely remove hair from the surface of the skin. It is useless to remove hair unless it is attacked under the skin as well as on the skin. Actual tests by eminent physicians have proven that this result can only be accomplished by the use of De Miracle. The mere fact that De Miracle is the only hair remover that has been used and recommended by reputable physicians, surgeons and dermatologists for over twelve years is positive proof of its superiority.

Remember, you are not asked to buy De Miracle on a mere promise of your money being refunded if you are not satisfied. When you buy De Miracle you get the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package which entitles you to your money if it fails. He wise, insist on De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover. Others are imitations—refuse them.

De Miracle can be obtained by mail in plain sealed wrapper in 50c and $1.00 bottles direct from De Miracle Chemical Co., Park Ave. and 125th St., New York, or may be purchased at any good drug or department store.

Why My Husband Left Me

No. 3—How an Ignorant Wife Bankrupted a Domestic Firm

He Tried in Vain to Eat the Food I Placed Before Him

By DOROTHY DIX

IT is admitted that most marriages are failures. One in twelve ends in divorce in this country. What is the reason of this? I have asked several women whose marriages are failures to tell why.

By DOROTHY DIX

"MY marriage was a failure," said the third woman, "because I did not understand the business of being a wife. I was utterly ignorant and incapable of fulfilling my part of the partnership, and so I bankrupted the firm.

"My mother was one of those foolish, fond women who think that they are doing their daughters a kindness by spoiling them and protecting them from everything hard and practical in life. I have heard my mother say a thousand times, 'I want my girls to have a perfectly happy girlhood, and they aren't going to have their heads cudgeling and worrying as long as I can save them from it.' It will be time enough for them to learn how to cook and sew after they are married. Heaven knows the burdens of life come soon enough to a woman, anyway, without their being laid on her in her youth.'

"That was my mother's philosophy of life, as it is that of thousands of other women, and because of it I, and thousands like me, were ignorant of housekeeping and of cooking and of thrift, where nothing was to be economized, or, rather, where nothing was to be wasted.

"At least my competent, order-loving husband could stand it no longer, and in words that seared into my very soul he told me that I was a failure, and that I had blasted his dreams of a home. He had always longed for a home, and I had shown that I could not make one. He had looked forward to having a wife who would be a helpmate to him. I had proved that I could be nothing but a millstone about his neck. But one thing was left him, that was his ambition, and he would not let me blight that by my wastefulness. Therefore we would go to a hotel to live, where he could, at least, keep some check on our expenses, and would have defaulted on his if he had failed to provide me with food and clothes and shelter.

"I think there never could have been anywhere else as much unearned food as was served in our table in our first two years of marriage. The meat was invariably tough and stringy, no matter what variety it was. It was sure to be burnt or raw. The cake was worse than shoe leather to drink, the vegetables pulpy, unseasoned messes.

"But after day I would see my husband push away his plate after the first mouthful, and at his look of disgust I would burst into tears and begin whimpering out complaints against the cook. 'For the Lord's sake, why don't you fire her and get somebody who can cook?' he would exclaim impatiently. 'don't you know how to cook yourself? Why don't you try?' she said, with a sneer.

"But I didn't know how myself, and all I could do was to bungle the intelligent offices and drag in another girl, even more incompetent than the first.

"And the bills. Stupendous, staggering, for I let tradesmen cheat me and servants waste. As I think of it now, our home was like a nightmare to me, and I used to spend hours and hours, where nothing was to be done, or, time.

"At last my husband, order-loving husband could stand it no longer, and in words that seared into my very soul he told me that I was a failure, and that I had blasted his dreams of a home. He had always longed for a home, and I had shown that I could not make one. He had looked forward to having a wife who would be a helpmate to him. I had proved that I could be nothing but a millstone about his neck. But one thing was left him, that was his ambition, and he would not let me blight that by my wastefulness. Therefore we would go to a hotel to live, where he could, at least, keep some check on our expenses, and have decent meals served at the right time.

"So we gave up the little home of his dreams and went to live the nomad life of married couples who round about in public hostelries. Somewhere in that unnatural country husbands and wives lose each other, and we were no exception to the general rule. After a while we came to the parting of the ways, and I went to Reno for a divorce so that he might be free to marry another woman. It was all I could do to comfort Dennis because I know that the fault at our wrecked happiness was mine. I would never have happened if I had known my business and how to make a home and keep my husband safe in the shelter of it."

HOW TO CLEAR AWAY PIMPLES

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and hot water, then apply a little Resinol Ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, removes pimples and blackheads and leaves the complexion clear and velvety.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal skin humors, sores, burns, wounds and chafing. Sold by all druggists. For free trial size, write Dept. 43-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

"That most delightful of soaps"

"Its beautiful lather makes my hair fluffy and free from oil or stickiness. I know of no soap so satisfactory in every way."

That is what a San Francisco lady has to say of Lifebuoy Health Soap. She not only keeps her skin healthy and smooth, and therefore charmingly tinted, with Lifebuoy, but she cleanses, "fluffs" and beautifies her hair with it.

Lifebuoy produces such wonderful results because it contains an antiseptic solution which cleanses, purifies and protects. It clears out the pores of the skin and scalp, removes all perspiration odors and destroys all the enemies of the skin.

Try its "beautiful lather" yourself

Watch the splendid effect on your own skin and hair—others will notice and speak of it, too. Get a cake of Lifebuoy from your grocer or druggist today.

FORBES GIVES AN A, B, C OF U. S. RAILROADS

By B. C. FORBES.

How many employes have the railways of the United States?

1,848,883.

Allowing five persons to a family, what would be the total directly dependent upon the railroads for their living?

9,244,415.

What is the minimum number of workers dependent for employment mainly upon orders from railroads—employes of locomotive companies, car manufacturers, etc.?

More than 1,000,000.

Multiplied by five-to-a-family, this means?

Upwards of 5,000,000.

Making the grand total of persons supported by the railroads—what?

Approximately 10,000,000, or one in every seven of the country's total population.

$1,320,923,230.

How many cents of each dollar the railroads spend do these employes receive in wages?

Fully 44 cents of each dollar.

* * *

How many cents of each dollar received are paid for materials and supplies for all purposes?

About 25 cents.

Does labor get any considerable share of this?

The bulk of it goes into the pay envelopes of those who produced or manufactured these materials and supplies.

What were the gross earnings of our railroads during the year ended June 30, 1914?

$3,598,457,606.

How much was retained as net earnings after paying operating expenses and taxes?

$716,655,210.

Who are the greatest taxpayers in the whole country?

The railroads.

How much did they pay last fiscal year?

$142,191,880.

Are their tax levies increasing?

The increase this year over last was $12,610,102, or at the rate of a million dollars more every month.

* * *

How do tax payments compare with dividend payments?

Exact comparison for 1914 are not available, but in 1913 4.14 per cent. was paid in taxes and 4.32 per cent. was devoted to dividends and surplus combined. Conditions are much poorer now.

The statement was recently made by anti-railroad people that the net receipts of the railways are $3,000,000,000 and as there are 20,000,000 families in the United States, the average expenditure per family for railway transportation is $150 or one-fourth of its income." Is this so?

The person who indulged in that arithmetic forgot to add that $3,000,000,000 or $150 for each family in the country, is paid back by the railroads in wages and materials alone, to say nothing of taxes and other respects the statement conveys misleading notions.

* * *

How do railway freight rates in the United States compare with those of other countries?

American freight rates are the lowest in the world.

How do the railroads spend each dollar they receive? What are the exact details?

The railway dollar is spent thus, in cents and fractions of cents:

Labor	44.05
Coal and oil	8.64
Materials, supplies	9.80
Miscellaneous expenses	4.66
Taxes	3.44
Loss and damages	2.26
Betterments, etc.	4.57
Interest on funded debt	12.04
Rents of leased roads	3.32
Dividends and surplus	4.92
Total	100.00

Who are the owners of the railroads? Whose capital has built them and maintained them? How many stockholding and bondholding people there? How many security holders are women? Are savings banks, insurance companies, hospitals, colleges and many philanthropic institutions largely dependent upon dividends and interest from railway investments for their income and support? Who suffer when railroads are wrecked by mismanagement?

That opens up another phase of the railways—D. E. F. so to speak—and calls for a whole chapter for itself.

OPTIMISTICS.

The Pennsylvania road reports for September a gain of $179,000 in net after taxes. This was due to reduction of expenses, gross decreasing $1,291,000, or about 3 per cent.

Real estate men are looking for a country-wide boom. In Chicago negotiations have been resumed to borrow $10,000,000 to commence building operations.

New York banks have just refined an additional $3,564,000 in emergency currency, making a total of $38,131,370 refined.

It is understood contracts placed by the British government with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation total nearly $35,000,000.

British shipments of worsteds to the United States in October were only 3,174,000 yards, compared with 106,744,000 for September. There is little competition for American manufacturers now.

It is estimated war supplies bought in this country by Europeans in September and October totaled $250,000,000.

The Greek government has ordered through a purchasing agent 20,000 canteens from a Philadelphia concern.

Clip Now to Get Big Offer on Embroidery

Of all the gifts that so delight the women folks at Christmas time, none is so acceptable as the dainty articles of hand embroidery made by some dear friend.

This is the reason why the AMERICANS Embroidery Outfit offer has been received with so much enthusiasm among women and girl readers all over New England. The outfit of the outfit is most unusual, each one containing as it does over 200 Boston transfer patterns, all of the latest stylish designs, an all-wood beaded embroidery hoop with a special clasp arrangement to keep the work and embroidery silk and floss in assorted colors. To make this great offer still more complete, each outfit contains a booklet of instructions with illustrations and complete directions for making all kinds of stitches, outline stitch, chain stitch, feather stitch, etc., etc.

Anyone can secure this splendid Embroidery Outfit for six coupons (of consecutive dates) and the trifling expense of sixty-eight cents.

Every woman knows the cost of even a single embroidery pattern purchased in the usual way and it is not difficult to figure out the big value the AMERICAN is giving its women readers in this remarkable Embroidery Outfit offer.

You will find the coupon, as well as full details, on the Magazine Page of this paper.

Better start clipping your set of six coupons before this opportunity is gone.

Whether Lincoln Said It or Not —It's TRUE

Spend Your Money HERE for Things Made HERE by Workmen That Live HERE

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

During the election a young man running for office in New York used a "quotation from Lincoln."

Some of his enemies said that he made up the quotation himself. If he did, barring the forgery, he did well. For whether he said it or not, the quotation attributed to Lincoln is full of the right kind of American spirit and common sense. This is it:

"If my wife buys a cloak in America we get the cloak and the money, and American labor is paid for producing it.

"If she buys a cloak abroad, we get only the cloak. The other country gets the money, and foreign labor receives the benefit."

Genuine or not, we recommend that quotation to every American. We recommend it especially to President Wilson and his obedient assistants, the Democratic Congressmen, who recently worked to persuade Americans that they ought to buy their "cloaks" abroad, and give the money and the employment to workmen over there.

We need to encourage the people that live in this country. We should spend our money IN THIS COUNTRY.

Every citizen should join heartily and sincerely in the movement to encourage the "Made in U. S. A." idea.

Let them fight in Europe, if they must, and cut each other's throats. They will tire of it.

Let us here help each other, buy of each other, stay at home, spend at home, get rid of the silly idea that a foreign trade-mark means excellence. WE HAVE PEACE—LET US ADD PROSPERITY. WE CAN DO IT.

Golf for the Old—It Makes Them Young. Golf for the Young—It Preserves Their Vitality

A Rebuke to a Silly Englishman Who Talks of "Golf Neurasthenia"

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

There is only one thing about the game of golf—too FEW people play it.

There should be more public links, more private links. And they are foolish who give up the game or neglect to TAKE it up.

Here are some facts about golf:

The game provides wholesome, cheerful, easy out-door work for thousands of boys, and work well paid for.

Golf takes years from the shoulders of the older men.

Ask John D. Rockefeller.

Golf is good for young men, because it gives them the exercise, the oxygen and the change of thought that they need, without lowering their vitality.

Golf is especially good for men after forty, because after that age tennis and the violent games are bad.

Golf develops patience, concentration, needed by all men in our country.

Golf is good for children and especially for little boys, who ought to have lung exercise daily.

These statements are published by way of contradicting the silly and harmful statement contributed by an Englishman and widely circulated, to the effect that "golf makes people egotistical, melancholy, nervous wrecks."

The Englishman writes:

"Like a great many golfers, I find I have developed neurasthenic tendencies, which the more I seek to dispel by the great open-air cure of golf the less I am able to shake off. My doctor declares neurasthenia to be the pathological symptom of the game."

This statement is as far from the truth as the North Pole is from the South Pole and farther.

Golf has cured thousands of cases of weakened nerves. A good condensed reply to the Englishman and his foolish talk was made the other day by a solid business man whose nerves and general health are important to many employes and stockholders. He wrote of the Englishman's twaddle:

"I have enjoyed reading the English golfer's 'Why Golf Makes People Egotistical, Melancholy, Nervous Wrecks,' and I have come to the conclusion that our English golfer evidently hooks and slices a great deal and takes about four putts on every green.

"I cannot imagine that he has ever had the experience of having the other fellow down, or the satisfaction of making a good clean shot.

"And he forgets the Winter outfits of the army of 200,000 caddies that golf is the means of providing.

"Duffer that I am at the game, I am sure, after a game of golf and experiencing more or less the tired feelings of a mountain goat, I sleep better. And the staff at my office are insured against my making them 'melancholy, nervous wrecks' for at least the first few days of the week."

There would be fewer ruined digestions, fewer ruined nervous systems, fewer employes unjustly criticised or discharged, less frequent recourse to cocktails and nerve medicines by business men if every one of them did his "eighteen holes" at least three times a week.

Bungalow isn't so young as he used to be, and he doesn't like the dapper young man going about with Mabel, the Queen of the Movies. Nevertheless, our hero—he's not exactly a hero, you understand, but all of us literary folks refer to our principal character as a hero—and our hero, as we were saying, can't help seeing that his enemy sports the very latest thing in whiskers. The rest of the story needs no explanation from us. We may add, however, that we are forming a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Whiskers, and shall oppose with all our might all burnsides, mutton chops, lace curtains, side whiskers, fire escapes and all other forms of facial foliage.

How Helen Helped

CHAPTER XII.—SETTING THE TRAP

WHEN Helen got home after being out with Van Buren she could not go to sleep, for she only then began to realize the chance she had taken in going out with such a fellow. But she did want to help Frank, and her object in going out with Paul had been to learn something from him about the forgery, of which Frank was accused, though she felt certain Paul Van Buren was guilty of it.

As she lay and tossed in her bed she said to herself: "I must tell Frank about it the first thing in the morning, for he might misunderstand me if he should hear of it from any one else." And as Helen lay there thinking about it all she suddenly hit upon a plan that she realized at once would clear it all up and prove Frank's innocence to Paul Van Buren's father. She remembered Paul asking her to go away with him to some other country, "where they could be happy forever and ever," as he put it, and she resolved to make capital of it and make Paul confess in the hearing of his father—if it could be worked.

She Could Not Go to Sleep

The next morning at the office Helen waited her chance and, while apparently talking about some office work, told Frank all about what she had done and where she had been. When Helen said she had been out with Paul Van Buren she noticed the shock it was to Frank, but all he said was, "There, there, girlie, it was a narrow escape for you, for if he had not got drunk, heaven knows what would have happened to you, for I know what he is capable of. If you ever do such a thing again let me know about it, so I can at least protect you."

"No fear, Frank, dear," answered Helen, "I shall never take a chance like that again. But I have a plan—the next time Paul Van Buren comes in the office, you go at once and get his father. Both of you stand on the other side of that partition over by my typewriter, so you both can overhear, and I will make him confess, and his father won't have any doubt as to the real forger." H. C.

The Married Woman and Romance

When Wives Are Annoyed It Generally Is Their Own Fault, Since It Takes Two to Play at the Game of Love

By DOROTHY DIX

I GET a great many letters from married women, who assert they are virtuous and discreet wives and mothers, yet who complain that they are annoyed by the attentions of men who have fallen desperately in love with them.

Sometimes this too attractive matron writes that it is the family doctor, or even her minister, who cherishes an uncontrollable passion for her; sometimes it is the family friend, and not infrequently it is a brother, or relative of the husband who pesters the lady with his love-making, and so she writes, asking me what shall she do about it, how shall she stop it?

Perhaps such cases exist, but I am sure they are far more rare than my correspondents think. Not every woman who thinks herself a fascinator could substantiate her title to the claim. Many women have such an insatiable appetite for romance that they can manufacture it out of mere politeness on a man's part, and they go about fitting the halo of a lover on the unsuspecting head of every man they meet. Many a man, who has never felt any impulse stronger than mere friendliness toward a woman, would fall dead with surprise if he knew that she believed him to be perishing of a hopeless passion for her.

Therefore, I take with a good many grains of salt any wife and mother's assertion that men persecute her with their unwelcome attentions. In case, however, that this is true, and some man has fallen in love with her, there is no difficulty in her putting an end to his philandering, if she really wishes to do so.

It is only in melodramas that the "villain still pursues." In real life a woman has only to say, "Scat" to a distasteful lover, and say it in a tone of voice as if she meant it, and he scats over the back fence before you can say Jack Robinson. The difficulty is to keep a man in love with you, not to prevent him from getting tired of you, and wandering off after a younger and fairer face. Especially when you're old enough to be a wife and mother.

In all good truth, the woman who is really honest at heart and desires to run straight, has little to fear from men. Practically every man tests every woman that he meets as to her moral principles. If he ascertains that she is one of those who is standing around looking out for a tempter, he qualifies for the job, but if he recognizes that she is one of the pure in heart, he respects her innocence. It is curious, but true, that a man is equally willing to lead a woman up or down.

As a matter of fact, men have such a respect for goodness in a woman that only the lowest and most degraded among them would turn a woman from the right path if they could. Even the most evil men, knowing too much of evil women, have this ideal of a white and unsullied womanhood, and any wife and mother has in her wifehood and motherhood a shield that will protect her from any Lothario if she cares to use it.

Not many men are so abandoned as to thrust unwelcome attentions upon an honorable wife and mother, and the married woman who finds herself in possession of a lover has, at least, been guilty of contributory negligence. Like Barkis she has shown that she was "willing."

Of course, the situation often goes beyond the limits the woman expected it to. That's the trouble in playing with fire. The married woman intended to be true to her husband and children. She merely desired to nibble once more at the very outer edge of the cage of romance when she began making eyes at her preacher, or doctor, or the family friend, and she's disconcerted enough when she finds out that the man wants to play the game out to the end.

When a married woman begins dallying along the primrose path, there's generally something pitiful about it as well as sordid, because back of her straying is the feminine never-ending craving for sentiment and love, for something more than the dry husks of matrimony.

She may have a good husband, a good home, all the comforts of life, but her husband never shows her any loverlike attention, never notices how she looks, never praises her. He apparently regards her as just a cog in the domestic machinery, and the heart of the woman, starving for some real manifestation of a living affection, takes forbidden fruit.

It is men's indifference to their wives that makes so many flirtatious wives. This is, perhaps, no excuse for the women, and it surely should be a warning to the men. No man who keeps his own lovemaking up to the mark has anything to fear from other men, and by the same token no woman is pestered with love talk who doesn't lend a listening ear to it. For, after all, the love game is not solitaire. It's a two-handed game, and it takes two to play it.

AND AFTER A HARD DAY'S CRUMBING LITTLE ADOLPH, FATIGUED, GOES TO SLEEP DREAMING OF CRUMBS TO COME!

Two artists are working on the life of Adolph, the only smooth-faced mouse in history. One artist lives in the East—one lives in Los Angeles.

One, whose pictures you see here, works in the style of Velasquez; the other is more or less "cubist." Adolph the Mouse gathers crumbs.

His ancester, he tells us, is the ox, who did not know why he ploughed the sod. Adolph truly says: "Ploughing the sod is no business."

His adventures will be continued and careful research made into his genealogy. If possible his EXACT name will be discovered. (Dont miss our great scope, "Adolph and His Wall Street Shining Factory" in next series.)
